DEDICATION

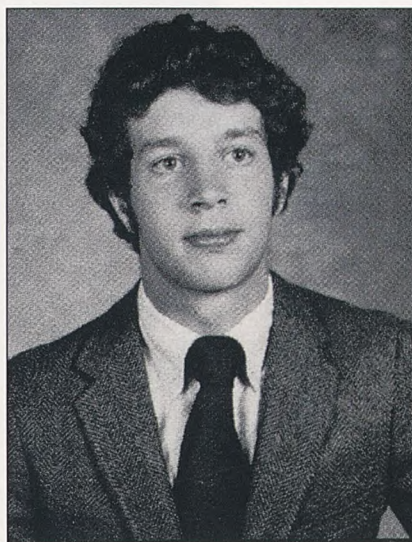

Richard Klausner

The Montgomery Bell Academy student handbook describes the school ideal as: GENTLEMAN, SCHOLAR, ATHLETE. No one has walked the halls of MBA who better represents this ideal than Richard Klausner. As a 1973 graduate of MBA, Mr. Klausner has a unique understanding of the students and their problems. Although it has been more than thirty years since he graduated, Mr. Klausner continues to show unparalleled dedication to our school. As the Microbe and JV soccer coach, he has earned the love and respect of all who have followed his coaching advice, receiving the endearing but honorable title of "Coach K." In his most recent role at MBA, he has become a college counselor, helping inexperienced young men determine where they should spend life after MBA. Though he may be a fun-loving guy, Coach K has balanced his role of mentor and disciplinarian in a way that helps students learn from their mistakes and respect the kind of authority he represents. During his free periods, Coach K can be found counseling or consoling students who are struggling with academics, discipline, or some other personal problem. Leading by example, Mr. Klausner has helped to shape young men who have never even had him in class. As a ninth-grade English teacher, he is one of the high school's best writing instructors. A man who loves good books, Mr. Klausner invites students to stop by to chat about a good novel they've just read or hang out during a free period. His wisdom always serves to build a boy's confidence, help him find his place at MBA, and give him a chance to voice his views to someone who will listen and never patronize. For these reasons and more, the editors dedicate the 2004 Bell to Mr. Richard Klausner.

I would like to thank everyone at Montgomery Bell Academy for making my experience here the time of my life. Thank you to the faculty, especially my coaches, for having a passion to help their students and players achieve success in life. Thank you to my family for always supporting and encouraging me no matter what; Mom for always caring and worrying about me, Dad for always being able to talk to me and share your ideas with me, and Emily for having the impact you have had on me and for always being there, even if it was just to listen. I love you guys. Thank you to Julian Bibb, Jacquie, Greg, Erika, Josh, and DeVries for helping me in my walk with Christ. Last, but certainly not least, thank you so much to all my friends. I have been the most fortunate person in the world to have someone to there for me anytime I needed it. To Kerry, Rachel, Lauren, Laine, and Debbie...it has been incredible getting to know beautiful Christian girls like you, and your husbands will be very lucky. Brad, Teddy, Parker, and Stupac-even though I've known you the least amount of time, I love you guys with all my heart. To Lips and John, thank you for being the friends that you have been to me. I will never forget you guys. We have had so much fun and I would not give it up for the world! "Blessed are the pure in heart, for they will see God" Matthew 5:8.

As the saying goes, "Show me who your friends are, and I'll show you who you are." Such can describe my time here on the Hill; for while I consider myself independent and self-providing, those I've met here have molded me into a better and happier person. I owe all of my success to you, my friends of MBA. Thank you, my freshmen buds, for our lunchroom talks, the spirit bus rides, and the chases around the quads; Guy, Clayton, Hunter, thanks for being great friends — don't ever change. Thank you, Mrs. Christeson, for helping me find a passion in languages. Te agradezco, Dtra Springer, por tu inspiración y tu manera de abrirme las puertas de un mundo nuevo. Coach K, you are my most successful Spanish student.

And then there are my friends of the senior class. Thank you, Mateo, for your awesome "box-socials" and friendship. Carter, John, Michael — Wherever you go in life, remember to make this your mantra: "MEAWH!" Scoteo, just one word: jealousy. Morgan, I beat my chest for you. Dylan, you so wiggity-wack — see ya in Europe. Maxy-baby, thanks for being my best friend. Santi, I am your secret, "in the closet" #1 fan. Wilson, squirrel meat reduces cholesterol. Zippity, thanks for your patience and understanding; reach for the stars, pal.

Each of you 113 gentlemen has done so much simply through your acts of kindness, appreciation, and love. You all have taught me to love and to appreciate the value of friendship. I owe you my life, for you complete it. Realize just how special and extraordinary you guys are, and I hope you continue on in life blessing each person you meet in the way you have with me. Understand that success is not defined by grades or jobs, rather those around you, for "Two are better than one; because they have a good reward for their labour. For if they fall, the one will lift up his fellow: but woe to him that is alone when he falleth; for he hath not another to help him up." (Ecc 4:9-10). Nick and Matt, I'll never understand why you had to leave us so soon, yet if we can learn anything from you it is that life is too short to hate; only exists time to love. I love you guys with all my heart; I will always remember you and what we had, have, and will have together. As we each go our separate ways, please remember to stay in touch and, above all, stay cool. Roll, red, roll!! HOORAH!

Camping trip '01-vikings, caskets, stories, getting lost, rocks in the holes...nobody will understand; frolicking across Hillsboro with angel wings on at midnight; the Den; the tub; Tyson fight- "I want some blood" and the celebration afterward; Krystal in the goose; Circus AP; return of the mack; BA scowl; the bus '03; third period study hall, we're in heaven; did he just try to cut me off...honk; trip to Clarksville for wrestling tournament; TP '03, worrying about those CPA kids; pushing the backpack off the bookshelves onto its unsuspecting owner...classic; Gump and Jenny; Rolla Gang; hanging with Hank while demolition derby '03 was going on; CPA, ungive me; it may not be pretty, but it's a smooth ride; you are what you eat; Blue Man Group at Patrick's tonight; Eeyore; APES surveys and making moves on Webb; Richard...Tiny Dancer, the remix; SMOS; She's four...; Want me to return the wallet; Saw the rims, bling, cough; More than any other at the school; Mrs. Winners.

I came to MBA not knowing what to expect at all. It has challenged me in almost every way imaginable, and I am forever grateful for what this school has done for me. The challenges were not only helpful but necessary. However, MBA can have all of the awards, recognitions, and championships it wants. Not a single one of these makes it what it is. The people here are truly unique and make it great. I want to thank all of my teachers for all of their help and for giving their best effort and encouraging me to do the same. Thanks to all of my friends for keeping me sane. You have all been great. Without you, I could not have really gotten everything out of my experience and out of myself. Finally, thanks to my family. It means everything to me that you encouraged me to go here and have supported me throughout. I really appreciate my experience here. The memories I have listed above may be the ones that stand out, but they are not what I will take with me. I will never forget my time at MBA or the people I have met and developed relationships with. Roll Red.

To attempt to write about MBA is to insult the place because no perfect pile of words will ever match the experiences, emotion, stress, pleasure, joys, and failures that MBA allows each student to create. MBA, its students, teachers, and coaches are such a part of my life that to imagine myself without them is to dream of a life so foreign and distant.

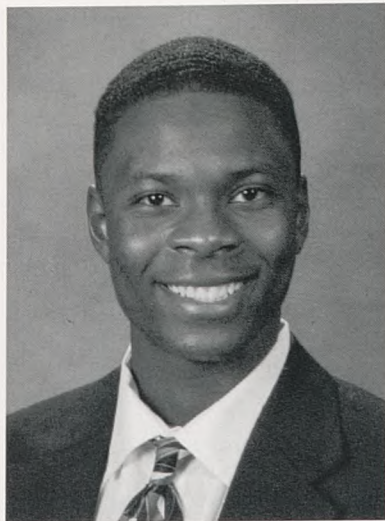

Looking down my well of memories immediately I see the reflection of my face, not my present one, but all at once the faces, expressions of every moment of the last four years. My well is so full that I must hurl myself into the depths to remember. I watch myself hiding in a corner behind a desk as my Junior English teacher walking in asks where his little Polish friend is. I fade through the brick wall into the top of Ingram where I'm distracting Shaun from his lab. Swimming deeper, I find my always excited sophomore history teacher stretching out the word "Shiz." Going still further, I see my first grade at MBA, 73, Latin I; without this class's teacher I would not be who I am now and not the same either without my head trauma from Ancient and Medieval. If given the opportunity again, I would take that class in an instant. The pressure at such a depth being so great, I rise to the perfectly comfortable level in the second seat furthest row from the door when finally my American History teacher was "squished." Turning around I watch myself listening intently to another Brown Dodge Aspen story. Suddenly I'm playing charades in CAT. I sink, and sinking find a critique of my Odyssey presentation that I still remind myself before every ovation such as Cicero's speech given in a toga. How I loved Mondays with aphorisms which I wish I had the mental ability to recall at a whim like I can recall Georgia O'Keefe's painting I used for my self-portrait. I remember the Chicago art trip and my art skills I wish I had perused with more time. I now swim to surface and leave behind my well of memories as I journey onward.

My fondest memories at MBA lie in the few thoroughly enjoyable classes I have had during my six years at the school. In particular, my freshmen English class with Mr. Klausner, my senior year Art History course with Mr. Womack, and American/Comparative Government AP with Mr. Coverstone. Each of these classes held a certain rare dynamic I savored throughout my term in their rooms.

What luck, during my first year of high school I landed in an English class like Mr. Klausner's. Mr. Klausner was a highly amusing and excellent instructor who helped me to push my ability to assess and critique literary novels, short stories, and poems. I have never had a more patient teacher put up with my budding interest in long erroneous speeches commenting on the symbolism of something. He took it all in good stride. I do not think I ever heard him say, "no that is completely wrong." He could always find a way of saying, "hmm, that could be, that's an interesting interpretation, but this is what I got out of it..."

My senior year has been the best. Mr. Coverstone's class was really competitive. I have never been in a class with so many ridiculously intelligent people. What was really cool about this group was Mr. Coverstone's ability to really charge and direct our competitive nature into class discussion. He was always really into the government topic, and we felt compelled to bolster his excitement by answering his questions and reinforcing the subject with personal or book examples. Now the best for last. Mr. Womack's Art History class. For starters, there were only six students. This class was just fun. A good guy, a small, good-natured class, it was a trip all year. Mr. Womack really knew his stuff.

As I look back on my experience at MBA, I not only remember the great instances listed above, but also most importantly the many wonderful teachers within the MBA community who along with my classmates have believed in me and accepted me for the person that I am. Furthermore, I would truly like to thank Mr. Coverstone for being a wonderful advisor and making sure that I maintained good grades. Lastly, I would like to thank both Mr. Gioia and Mrs. Thurmond for noticing my potential and giving me a chance to fulfill my dream of graduating from MBA. With these thoughts in mind, I will never forget about my MBA experience and I hope that MBA does not forget about me. Farewell and may God bless.

To the Virgins, to Make Much of Time

Gather ye rosebuds while ye may,
Old Time is still a-flying;
And this same flower that smiles
today,
Tomorrow will be dying.

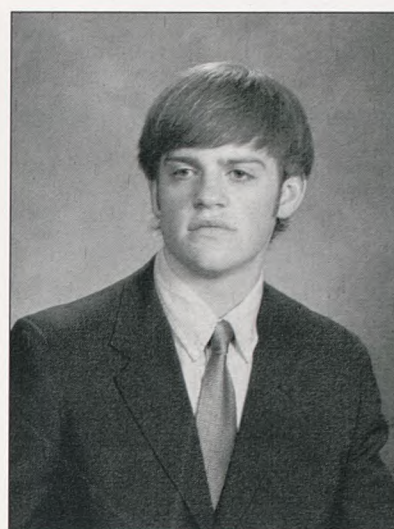

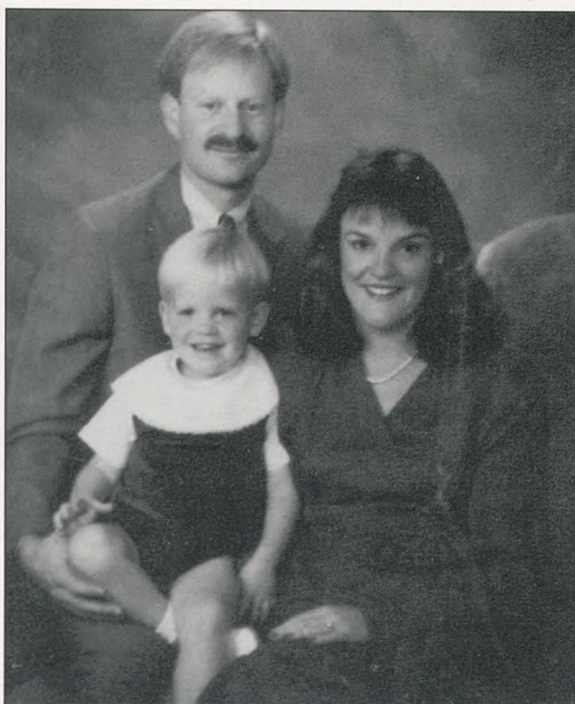

The glorious lamp of heaven, the sun,
The higher he's a-getting,
The sooner will his race be run,
And nearer he's to setting.

That age is best which is the first,
When youth and blood are warmer;
But being spent, the worse, and worst
Times still succeed the former.

Then be not coy, but use your time;
And while ye may, go marry:
For having lost but once your prime,
You may for ever tarry.

Leaves are falling all around,
It's time I was on my way.
Thanks to you, I'm much obliged
For such a pleasant stay.
But now it's time for me to go,
The autumn moon lights my way.
For now I smell the rain,
And with it pain,
And it's headed my way.
Ah, sometimes I grow so tired,
But I know I've got one thing I got to do,
Ramble On.

Thanks to all of my teachers at MBA; I owe the rest of my life to you. You always believed in me, even though sometimes I didn't believe in myself. Edd Caudill, Robert Sawyer, James A. Tillman, Damon Regen, Malcolm Morrison, Floyd Elliott, Richard Klausner, you guys have shaped me into the person that I am today. Thanks for making MBA worthwhile. Thanks to Kirk Brown, Julian Bibb, Jacquie Wattlington, Erika Emerick, Mark Devries, and Josh Leim for helping me stay on the right track in life. Mom and Dad, you guys always have given me the best, even though I sometimes took it for granted and did not deserve it. I love you always. Haley (boog), you have always been loving and caring, and especially so fun to be around. Thanks and love you always. Bethany Lamson, you are the only person in my life that every time I look at you I smile, and it seems like everything is all right. I love you always. Rachel Howell, Lauren Simpson, Kerry Dietz, Debbie Devries, Paul Caruso, Parker Prevost, Billy Billington, Brad Williams, MK Stone, Laine Evans, Jay Howell, Teddy and Peter Christenbery, Chris Douse, all you guys have always been great friends to me, and I love all you guys always and I will never forget you. Matthew Barnes and John Parker, wow guys, what a past 3 years. We've done everything together, and I don't regret one thing. All the fun and sad times we've had have made us grow closer, and I will remember the two of you forever. Without you guys, high school would not have been fun. Love always, guys. The one thing that exemplifies my high school career is this: "insert bible verse here, can't think of one yet." Love all you guys always. - Lips

To say that my last four years at MBA have been wonderful and that I would not change a thing would be a lie; It has had its ups and downs, and I have come away with the inevitable regrets of high school; Whether at 2 AM on the morning of a theme or when facing one of the many challenges of MBA, I have learned about myself and undergone my own set of inner tragedies and triumphs; I have come out of four years at MBA a changed person, for better or worse I cannot say for sure, but I reluctantly suspect the former; Well now I must take a moment to doff my cap to my fellow lads of the class of 2004 and if I forget to mention anyone don't take it personal I just couldn't remember everything and everyone at 1 AM; Steve and the WBE, I am the Lorax; DVD, The Italian Stallion takes on the notorious DUG; The Tri-yumvirate; No prisoners, Neal; Clark, there's no crying in bowling; Red Poets Society Rules; Red Army Core of Engineers (thanks, Amwah); Search, so what if it's a cult?; William, you know you're the nicest person on Earth; Phillip, I swear we'll play golf one of these days; No I will not make out with you, Rob; Cynnister; Who's Eric Hill; Hillbilly McBall; Jake "king of Non-play play" Lawrence; Dixon, quit poking Davide, it's my turn; Yeah, Shep; Lastly, to myself reading this twenty years from now reminiscing fondly of those carefree days unburdened by responsibility, I say this: Do not forget the enthusiasm of youth and the power of a moment, do not give in to the complacency of old age, and don't forget to take the time to stop and look at the stars once in a while. There is beauty in everything; Do not forget in the darkness what you have seen in the light.

Well, here I am, writing this senior bio way past the deadline, and the night before the yearbooks are sent to the printers. My MBA experience was a mixture of good and bad moments, and I don't have any profound words to say. While MBA provided me with a great education, the constant rules and pointless guidelines the administration filled into my head did not allow me to experience high school in the most honest and fun way. However, my friendships with shaun, neal, clark, shanley, phillip, trevor, and james provided me an escape from the dictatorship of MBA and allowed me to find myself. Through you guys, I have found how to have fun and enjoy life. I really don't have anything else to say, and I will leave MBA with a quote from an old friend: "The key to absolute bliss and complete peace of mind is focus on what's important, and everything is so tangible, so make what you want of it."

As I look back upon my wonderful time on the hill, I am filled with a sense of great pride and accomplishment, but I am also saddened at the thought of our many fallen soldiers: Mase T, David Crowe, Phillip Robinson, Anthony Denmark, Chris Lewis, and last but not least, Harry Kuntz, even though he did not physically leave MBA, mentally, he was not always quite there- you will all be remembered; why is Corey driving my car while Edwin's in the back seat smiling; "Trey, forget the beer- why the hell did you park in a handicap parking space anyway"- (D C meeting); when I leave, somebody please ask Ryan Coopwood why he waited until my senior year to start talking- and somebody tell Deon Gaines to start eating his food and stop throwing it up; Dwight, I don't keep toilet papers in my truck-D A really!- what?; what kind of haircut does Paul Robinson ask for when he goes to the barber shop?; Greg, slavery has been over for a few years now- we might not have gotten full reparations, but we did get a few rights; "Did he just do a one-arm pull up?"; E, you want to do what with a donut?; "Trey, why do you black people get offended when we call y'all colored?"; "Trey, do you live in the ghetto?"; "Are you in a gang?"; "Have you ever been shot in a drive-by?"; "Can you teach me how to dance?"; "Trey, I've gotta ask you all my questions about rap music because I don't understand it and you're black so you must know everything about it"; slavery couldn't have been as bad as black people say it was-c'mon, you want forty acres AND a mule?"; "On a scale of one to jackass, you're a whale, a very orange one at that!"; "Change your sign and DIE!"; "And then I heard a voice and it said, WAYNNNNNNNE!"; "I like big girls"; "Dwight- it takes more than ten minutes to grade each theme!";

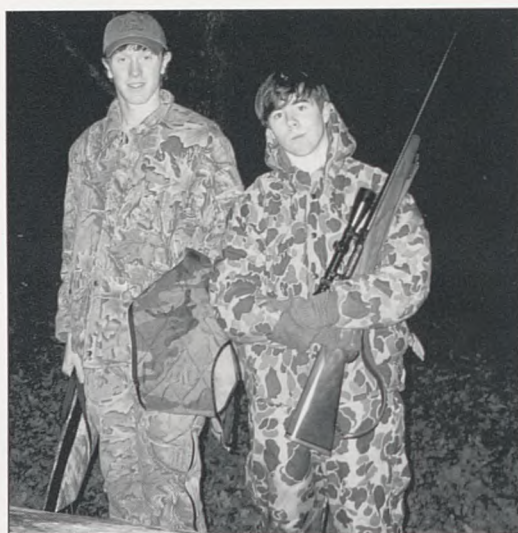

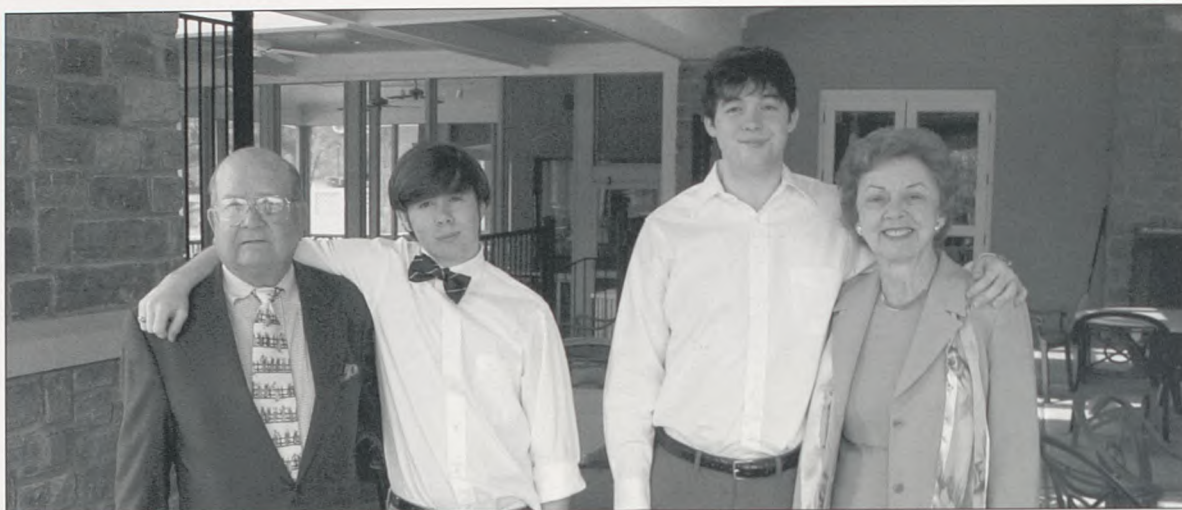

My MBA experience has been a great one. I definitely would like to thank Mr. Womack for being there for me when times got tough. Thanks to Mr. Tillman, Coach Klausner, Mrs. Warner, Dr. Batten, Mr. Kelly, and anybody else I forgot, you know who you are. Mr. Regen and Mrs. Solomon- we miss you. I am glad I was given this wonderful opportunity and I appreciate everyone who helped me make it through. Rest In Peace D B Fuller Senior- I missed the first day of school at MBA because he died so I knew that he would be watching over me the whole way through. I love everybody-Holla Bac

Long ago the great expanses were caught up aflame. For all was not well in the realm of fixed stars. But one man saw the needs below the great conflagration. The earth-shaker raised his mighty fists and called to order the people of the earth and all was calm. "Fearest thou not, my sheep! The Great Conflagration shall not engulf the earth as well!" And the people responded in great joy. They began to worship the man and he became enraged. Power came upon him and he destroyed the people there, leaving none alive. But soon he was stopped. The power of the wise men was too much for him. The wise men sealed him in metal. But eons passed and the wise men's seal was broken. It was then the hero arose, as the wise men had foretold. He wielded the mighty sword and staff the wise men had forged and his power was their power...

As tall above the waters stood his masts, his men also stood above other men. They sailed the expansive seas under the fires of the heavens with spears nearby, ever willing to destroy the dangers which lurked over the deep. High upon the bridge, the hero reposed, brilliant Seretherin standing before him. The high-plumed helmet of Ainohtar sat next to the hero as his ship broke the crests of the waves across the exposed deep.

The ships put in at an inviting port and the great warriors began to dig their fortifications. Trees were felled and soon the work was done. That night, no sooner than the warriors of the first watch had put their ears to their beds, the fierce Lehtinen found the camp and struck. The trench filled with blood as the gleaming armor of the Lehtinen crawled up to the lofty walls. Roused from their slumber, the men fought and affixed their armor. Great Dendroppius fell and wise Clarinius: the broad shoulders of Fesicles found them vulnerable. But the great hero, who wielded the weapons of lore, stood to fight them. Ainohtar strode boldly out into the fray and no man could stand against him. The weapons of the wise men gave him strength beyond strength. Having dispatched fierce Fesicles and the roof-burner Ancleopes, the peace-bringer pressed his attackers into retreat. Victorious, the men slept again.

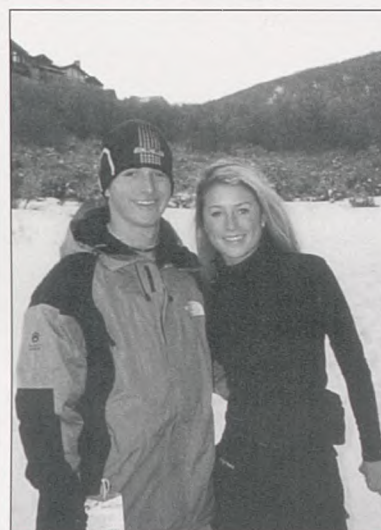

The Ainohtari set forth once again into the open seas. As they passed Ihanelma, the great earth-shaker of eons past let loose a cry fierce enough to shake the sails of the white fleet. The warriors put in at shore, their quarry spotted, and their leader approached with his staff ready and his sword at his side. The two men soon dispensed with parley and recalled their arms. Power once again came upon the earth-shaker and Ainohtar was pressed back toward the sea. But the wise men's power was sealed in the weapons he carried, and soon the staff began to weaken the man who had once guided. The staff of ancients discarded, Ainohtar drew his sword and slew the wicked man. Fate thus fulfilled, the skies collapsed in on themselves and then fell to the ground. The world was born again in fire, bathed in the cleansing aether.

Now some clouds, sorta vapourous, non-defined clouds are commin' in. It's that warm moment when everyone waits. That's a special moment I remember at MBA. It happens when we are outside going to another building. We might be going to an exam in Ingram. Maybe I am going to jazz band, a good bit late, after a Chemistry test. Neal is the first one to point that out. "Sometimes—after futile all-nights—deserts fill my workhouse and smoking sand gets in my eyes... and I must split the swollen cabin to check the dawn, to find: the creek still parties with the moon... the thrusting pine and whippoorwills still celebrate the sun. It generally works, and things are cool, but sometimes—after cutting out—nothing out there happens but the night. And those days were best forgotten." - Ken Kesey. Well, I've been in music since seventh grade. Joined chamber&orchestra 7th. Joined Chorus 9th. Joined Headmaster & Academy Singers 12th. Baritone section leader 12th. Been in rifle a couple years, had fun on trips but PEAKS was the best. Tried tennis, soccer, and cross country for awhile. I haven't given my teachers an easy time and thus they don't give me one either (shout-out to teachers who accept late work.) Then again, "It's very hard to take yourself too seriously when you look at the world from outer space." - Thomas K. Mattingly II. Also, I don't talk much but "Know how to listen, and you will profit even from those who talk badly." -Plutarch. Thanks to all my friends, teachers, and everybody who helped me get to where I am. I hope we're all headed the right direction. "To accomplish great things, we must dream as well as act." -Anatole France.

My time at Montgomery Bell Academy was an experience filled with pain and a little bit of joy. Although MBA is part of a relatively upper-class elitist society, it has been a place for learning and growth. As many know, MBA's motto is gentleman, scholar, athlete. Unfortunately, I do not believe I have any of these attributes. I went to the honor council, twice. I went to summer school five years in a row. And I never played any organized sports. I made mistakes, learned from them, and grew up. I found my passion, music. I have managed to make all of my dreams come true in music so far. WRVU has become a second home and a great experience in radio. Bar Twenty3 is my third home, playing every Friday and Saturday night for over a thousand people, but mostly drunk girls requesting 50 Cent. I feel as if MBA is in a different time and space. It is a place to experience education. I have been forced to learn the patterns and ways of it, and I am grateful for it. Without my teachers giving me failing grades I would not be where I am today. Mr. Morrison is without a doubt the most influential teacher I have ever had. He has inspired me to go to London and take over the West London Massive. The 5 year old boy Bailey Fish and the confused giraffe Nick Hallahan have taught me the clause of hypocrisy which I will use to further myself in this paradox of a planet. Zoe, my female companion, has been a long distance motivator who turns my frowns upside-down. Also, thanks to Mom, Dad, Micah, and the rest of the extended family and friends for putting up with me no matter what. I am off to make my dreams come true and conquer the world. See you on the flip-side. Love - Isaac

Aqueous Transmission

I'm floating down a river
Oars freed from their holes long ago
Lying face up on the floor
Of my vessel
I marvel at the stars
And feel my heart
overflow

Further down the river

Two weeks without my lover
I'm in this boat alone
Floating down a river
named emotion
Will I make it back to shore?
Or drift into the unknown

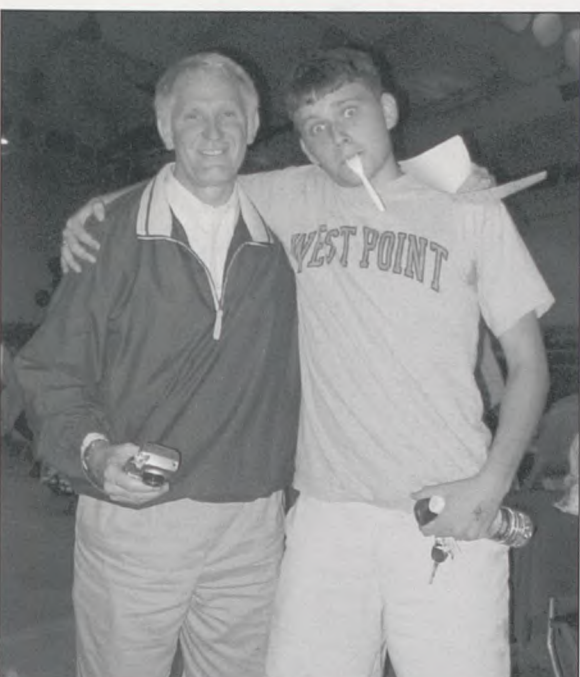

Further down the river

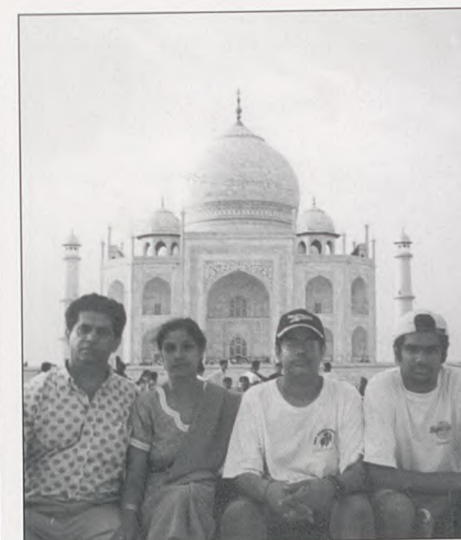

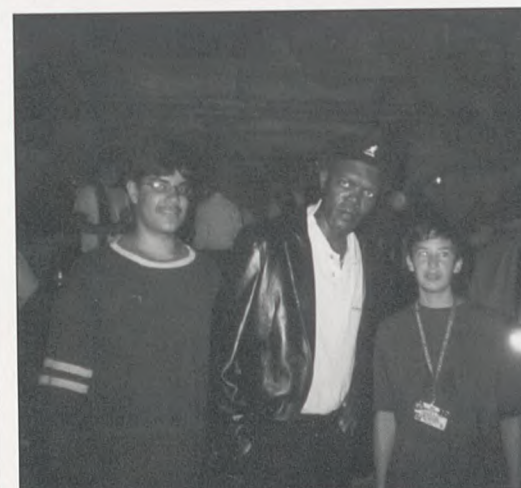

I'm building an antenna
Transmissions will be sent
When I am through
Maybe we can meet again
Further down the river
And share what we both discovered
Then revel in the view

Further down the river

I'm floating down a river

"I know you're all gentlemen. It says so on the side of the building" - Rabbi Kantor

I arrived to MBA with apathy, grew resentful, and then became accustomed. I came because I wanted to be cool like my older brother and do whatever he did. I soon realized that it was a mistake. 7th through 9th grade, even parts of sophomore year were miserable. I still can't go into the Massey building, it evokes painful memories. On reflection, however, I suppose that these years were not so much miserable because of the school as they were by my own fault. It was these years when I was struggling to find myself.

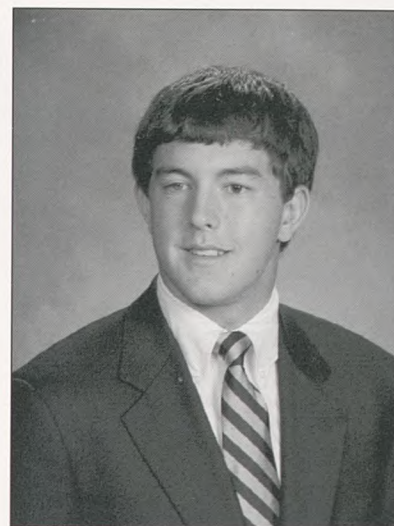

Eventually, I realized that I am a dork. Once I came to terms with this reality, I embraced it. I learned that it is not bad, it is simply who I am. It was only after I gave up trying to be some other person that grew accustomed to MBA. The single greatest risk I took at MBA was the day I wielded my penguin hat at school a frosty winter morning freshman year. While it may seem insignificant to most of you, this penguin hat, the one so many of you loathe, marked my breaking out of my shell. That day was the day I began acting with disregard for what my classmates thought of me. Responses varied from "That's stupid" and "That's gay" to "That's awesome" and even "That's brave." Not to glorify my own actions, but for me, it really did take bravery to don that hat, for I knew that I would alienate a lot of my peers. At the same time, however, I learned with what sort of people I wanted to associate myself.

While I am often quick to criticize the school for its stringent policies and uncompromising conservatism, I am truly thankful, for it is this institution that has taught me to say "yes, sir" and "yes, ma'am" rather than "yeah" and "uh huh." These lessons are truly more important than being able to recite the first twenty lines of the general prologue to Chaucer's The Canterbury Tales. I believe that in my time at MBA, I have learned how to embody this all-important motto: "Gentleman, Scholar, Athlete." What I believe gets lost in this cookie-cutter model of a student, however, is individualism. Thus my advice to all of you, even though few of you will read this, is to learn to retain your individuality within the MBA mold.

To my teachers...

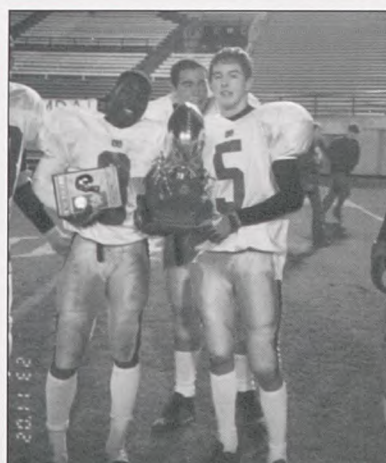

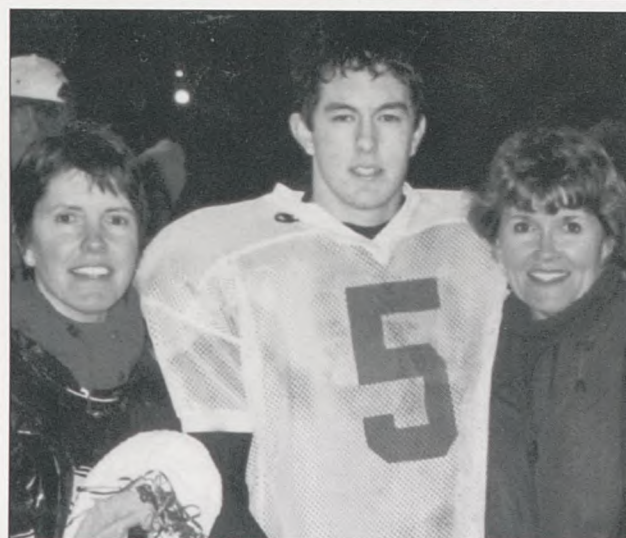

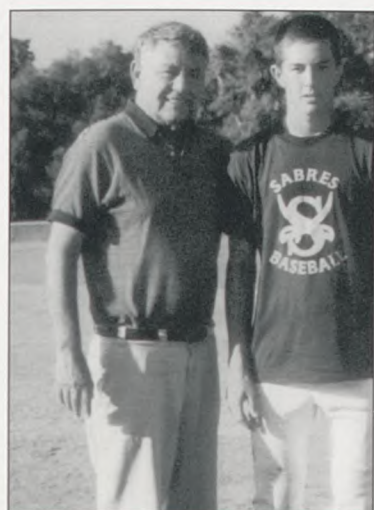

I would like to thank all of you for having the patience to help me excel. Mr. Klausner, I hold you responsible for teaching me how to write. Because of your candidness and sincerity, I have always looked up to you. Madame Drews, Dr. Clements, Mr. Jones, and Coach Vernacchio, your always upbeat manners continue to amaze me. Mr. Elliot, you are one of the best math teachers I have ever had. CDR Carr, lab practicals and tests on theme days are excessive, but I always enjoy bowling practices with you. Dr. Kinch, you were the teacher, I believe, that was most open to my taking literary risks rather than regurgitating what you had said in class. Coach Lanier, your class was crazy hard, but one of my favorites nevertheless. Mr. Rundberg, I will always love Ellington Band. When I make my first million, I will donate some to the Rundberg Center for Fine Arts and Aquatics. Mr. Coverstone, it is always a pleasure to talk to you both inside and outside of class.

To all of my friends: Branch, Shaun, David, Arthur, Patrick, Lipscomb, thanks for always being there for me. If I haven't mentioned you, don't worry, I still love you.

My brothers, our time has passed, but our story is far from over. We stand here now, as fate has guided us, having triumphed over good and evil alike. Strong as the day we met, we have indeed grown strong and are now ready for whatever lies ahead. My friends we cannot control fate; we cannot say where our stories will take us; we cannot know whether our paths will again cross, but we can remember. We can remember the times that brought us here, the times we have endure together. I have faith in you all, and to those whom I shall never see again, I wish you luck, and remind you to remember the days that brought you to where you are; remember the moments that made you who you are. To those that I shall cross paths with once more, let us share these memories fondly. And thus my friends, we go...

The Scientist

Come up to meet you, tell you I'm sorry

You don't know how lovely you are

I had to find you
Tell you I need you
Tell you I set you apart

Tell me your secrets
And ask me your questions
Oh let's go back to the start
Running in circles
Coming up tails
Heads on a silence apart

Nobody said it was easy
Oh it's such a shame for us to part
Nobody said it was easy
No one ever said it would be this hard

Oh take me back to the start

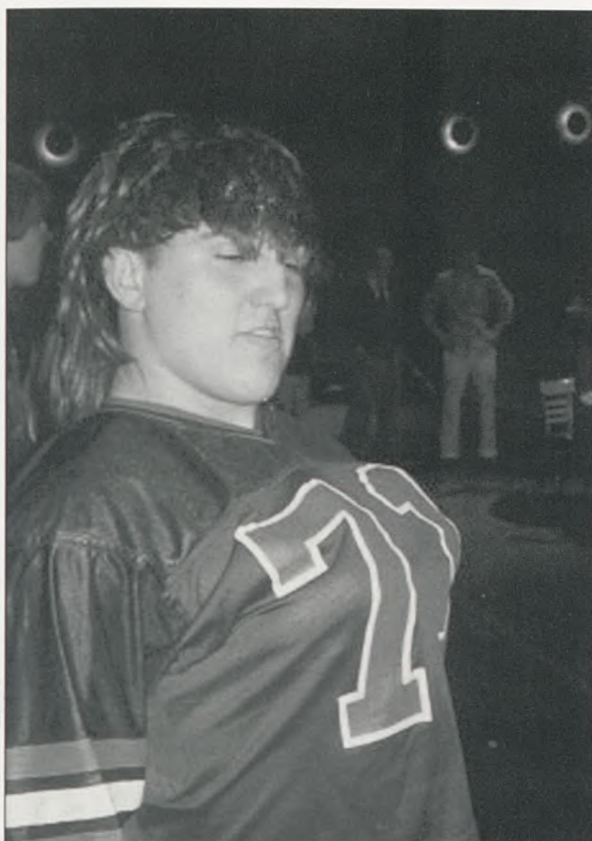

I was just guessing
At numbers and figures
Pulling your puzzles apart
Questions of science
Science and progress
Do not speak as loud as my heart

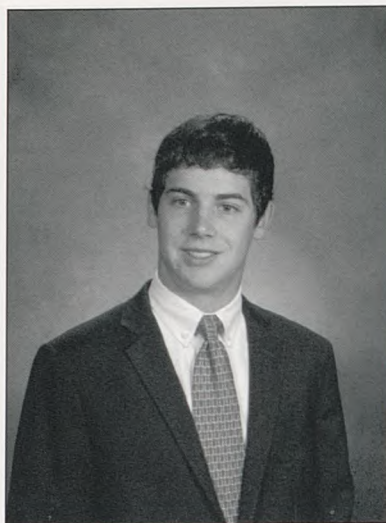

Tell me you love me
Come back and haunt me
Oh and I rush to the start
Running in circles
Chasing our tails
Coming back as we are

Nobody said it was easy
Oh it's such a shame for us to part
Nobody said it was easy
No one ever said it would be so
hard

I'm going back to the start

Yo, all I could really think to do with this thing was talk about the people that have meant a lot to me these past four years. Sorry if you're not impressed.

Neal: "Don't lie"; "We got time"; "Neal, when the homeless man thinks the river is to dirty to jump in..."; "It's because I'm brown isn't it"; Charlie: "Well I don't know, I've never died before" Neal: "I have"; "Yeah Schiz"; chili and cheese cheese sticks; Model UN, biggest jackass delegation of the assembly; Pranking everyone on the college trip; Stealing Jordan's car; The Brown Hindus; Neal, you will always be my yearbook editor.

David: Xtreme gulp; Holding the boombox up to the ceiling at Model UN; "You've killed me Mr. Tillman"; "This just goes to show that God wants you to cheat"; Powty face; Andrew Fleicher; "me tummy hurts"; Always more food than you can eat; David, just think, you will never have to cut your hair again.

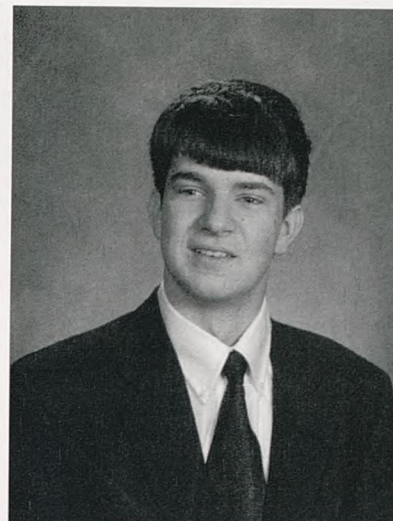

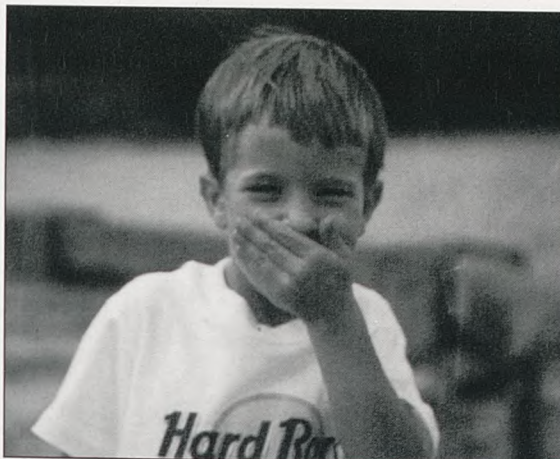

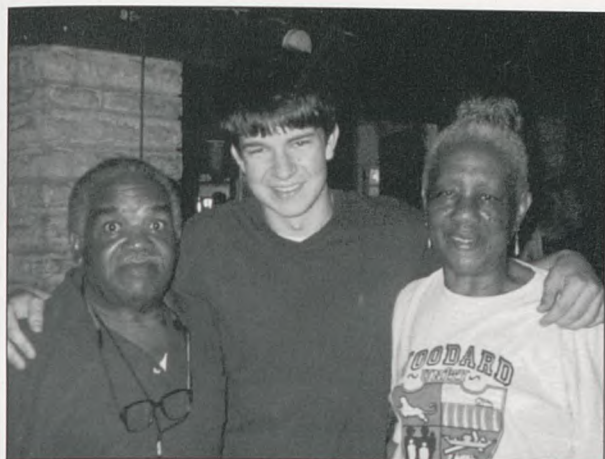

Patrick (Shanlala): Dickson Territory; Officer SOB; "God made us funky, Gin makes us mean"; hating Bell Meade and Green Hills together; Countless conversations during soccer weights and running; "Potato I've got," God said; My bed; Singing Pinkerton at the tops of our lungs; The swing version of Pink Triangle; Writing the greatest spaghetti supper video that never was; Patrick, in twelve years we have gone from a cowboy and Peter Pan to the Big White Devil and Officer SOB, sometimes I wonder if we will ever grow up.

Phil: "Oh, Phillip"; "Sometimes I wonder if my yelling of Phillip has become completely too sexual in nature"; You and Shanlala in bed together; Always going to bed at 9; Being the greatest straight man a group could ever ask for; "Clark hit us!!"; Being way too addicted to Tony Hawk; Water skiing in freezing cold water; "I'm not eastern European, I'm Mediterranean"; The competition; Phil, thanks for always being just a little bit better than me at everything, but somehow remaining one of my best friends.

So I guess that's it, I know I have left out some big stuff like a lot about Clark and Big B and 6th period Circus AP, but Ernest Hemingway couldn't write all of this in under 300 words. So if you got left out, don't fret, I still love you. Thanks for everything guys, if for some reason our paths don't cross again in this life, I'll see y'all in the next one.

Peace - Shaun

St. Henry CYO(9-12)- thanks for the talk at the '03 retreat, it meant a lot; SCA playboy(11-12)- you all became my family, I owe you so much- These two experiences helped me realize what high school is about.

I hate writing things like this, I always sound very impersonal, but I assure you, every word is sincere and there is not enough space for what I truly feel, ask me about it some day...

I have come to a new turning point in my life. I can still remember the day when I first stepped on to the overwhelming campus, I immediately felt ill. I survived, however, all the way to now. First, my family, without each of you: Mom, Dad, Emily, I would have had no stability, nothing to fall back on when I really needed it and no one else knew. Mom, for your continuous and abundant support, I will never be able to repay you. Dad, the advice and guidance you gave and continue to give me is priceless in every aspect of the word and has influenced me greatly. Emily, your friendship gave me true confidence and the ability to love life.

On the topic of friendship, something I hold in high regard, I will begin with those first steps onto the MBA campus. William and David, I could not have asked for a better pair of friends to accompany me to a new place. William, the example you set for everyone around you is incredible, I don't know how, but you continuously surprise me and amaze me with who you are and the way you live your life. David, although the memories of sixth grade jokes have faded, the bond that was started is unbreakable. Thank you both, if not for your friendships, I would not be who I am. To all my friends, I appreciate you more than you know. The impressions you have made on me will last a lifetime and each one of you is irreplaceable. Every experience has meant something to me, whether it was a 3 am Mario Kart battle (the greatest game ever, Chris?) or one of the infamous Lake Trips (you know who you are). To my friends: I know now why they say these are the best years of our lives, thank you all.

Purple haze

Purple haze all in my brain
Lately things don't seem the same
Actin' funny but I don't know why
'scuse me while I kiss the sky

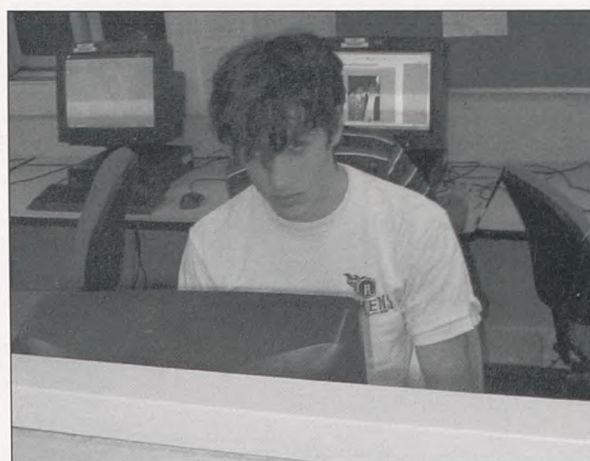

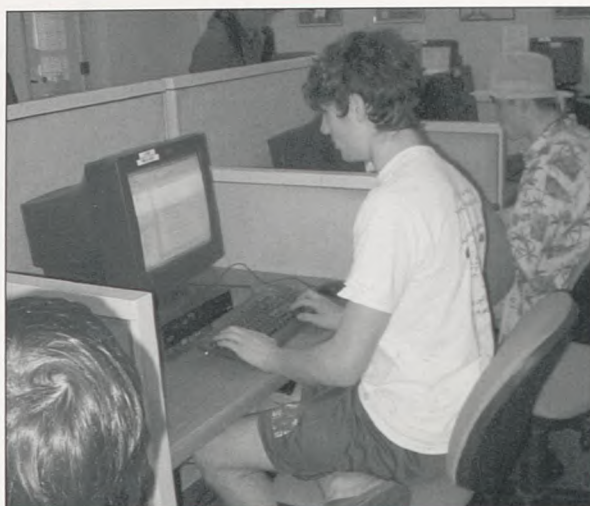

Purple haze all around
Don't know if I'm comin' up or down
Am I happy or in misery?
Whatevever it is, that girl put a spell on me

Help me
Help me
Oh I don't know

Yeah!
Purple haze was all in my eyes
Don't know if it's day or night
You've got me blowin', blowin'
my mind
Is it tomorrow or just the end of time?

Who knows?
Help me
Yeah
Come on now
Tell me
Tell me

To everyone at MBA: Thank you so much for your constant support through my academic career, I can't thank you enough, I owe everything to you. To all of my coaches: Thank you for your support, friendship and always being there for me. Mark and Jen DeJong, Coach Caudill, Coach Brown and Coach Sawyer, thank you for supporting me in my walk with Christ. You have made me become a much better person. Mom and Dad, thank you for always being there for me and always supporting me. You believed in me when I lost faith in myself. Mom, thank you for always keeping me focused on what I needed to do. Dad, thank you for always being there to help me out whenever I needed it. You have given me way more than I deserve. Catherine, thank you for all the awesome times we've shared together. It's been so much fun growing up with you. I'm sorry if I am a little hard on you at times. Meredith, thank you so much for always being there and caring for me. You always put a smile on my face and put me in a better mood no matter what I'm going through. I can't thank you enough for your support. Lane, Lauren, Kerry, Layla, Debbie, and Lauren: I have really enjoyed getting to know you and I will never forget the awesome times we've shared! Teddy, Titan, Parker, Stupac, Jay, Peter, Chris, and Brad: we sure have been through a ton together, and I wish I had hung out with you more, but I still feel like you are my brothers. Thank you for all the memories, y'all are awesome! Barnes and Lips, wow! We sure have shared some great times together! Thanks for always being there for me, and for keeping me from doing something stupid. I love you guys and I'll never forget all the awesome times we had! I'm going to miss y'all a ton next year!

"All that you touch

All that you see

All that you taste

All that you feel

All that you love

All that you hate

All you distrust

All that you save

All that you give

All that you deal

All that you buy

Beg, borrow or steal

All you create

All you destroy

All that you do

All that you say

All that you eat

Everyone you meet

All that you slight

Everyone you fight

All that is now

All that is gone

All that's to come

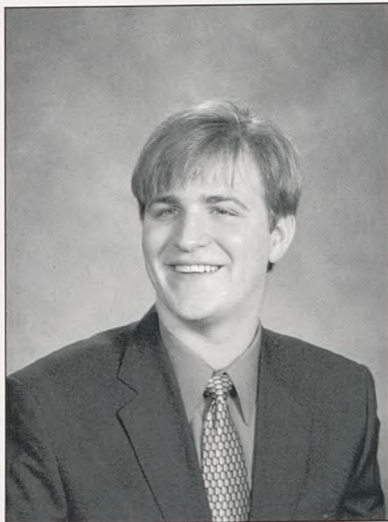

And everything under the sun is in tune

But the sun is eclipsed by the moon."

Thanks to my friends and family for making my years in high school the best in my life. Now, in the words of Jean-Paul Sartre, "Everything has been learned, except how to live."

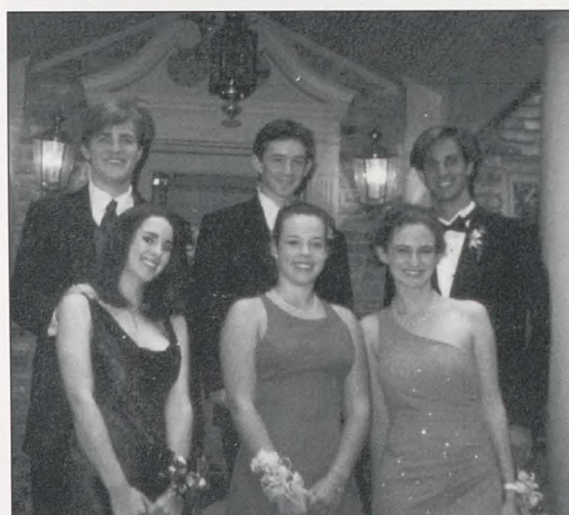

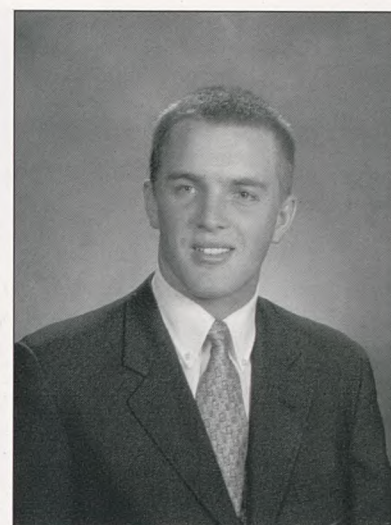

Spence Patton

Debater of four years; Treasurer for 4 years on the debate team; TOC Bid glutton; Lettered as a freshman in Tennis; Never received a demerit; Survived 3 years of Latin; Escaped Dr. Clark's Physics class with a B; Most influential teachers: Billy Tate, Andy Gaither, Bob Patrick, Dr. Bob Clark (taught me endurance), Windy Holmgren, Jason Fernandez, and Jim Miller.

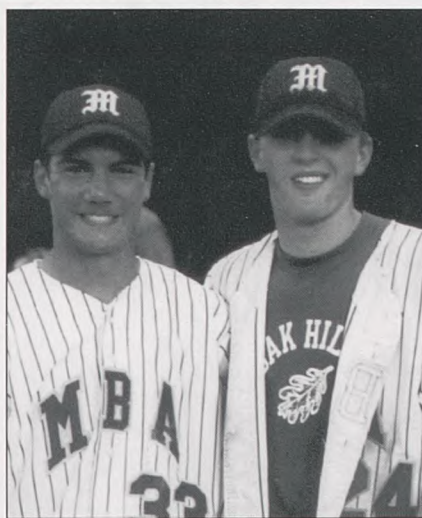

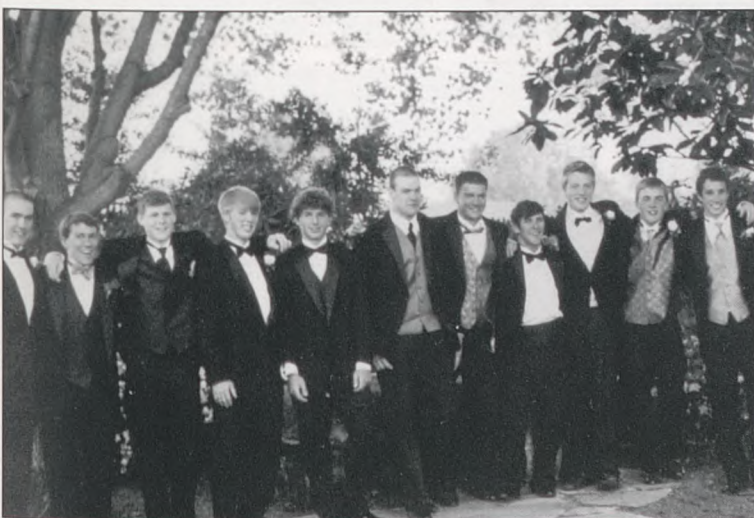

I began MBA as an expressive, outgoing, and excited kid. I came from St. Paul Christian Academy, from a class of 43 others. MBA presented me with a never-before-experienced feeling of freedom, independence, and responsibility. Instead of lining up everyday to go to our next classes, as we had to do in 6th grade, we were responsible for our own behavior in 7th. The change was great, but it had its costs. I did not know what to expect from an all-guys school, and I was surprised by what I found. The camaraderie I now feel with my peers as a senior was the exact opposite in 7th, 8th, and 9th grade. The kids were meaner, bigger, smarter, and older than I; all of which restricted my enjoyment of the MBA experience. However, as I grew as an individual and everyone became more mature, MBA developed into the school that I had hoped it would have been since the beginning. The 10th grade was a turning point at MBA, one for the better. MBA, especially through debate and the rigorous academic life, has taught me more about myself and what it means to be a responsible student than any other school could have. Regardless of the absence of girls, MBA still provided a growing experience for me, although pains did accompany it. As I prepare to enter the next phase in my life, I am experiencing the same feelings of desire for greater independence, more responsibly, and another opportunity to better myself. MBA has taught me more than I probably realize right now, but I do know for sure that it was an experience that I will carry in my heart and that is symbolized by a ring on my finger for the rest of my life

As I look back and reflect on my 5 years on the hill, I get a feeling of satisfaction. I have had an enjoyable career here, and I know I made the right choice in attending MBA. If there is anything that I have learned it is that I can't always be involved in everything, there is just so much stuff going on that it isn't possible. However, all the things happening here give incredible opportunities, not just in athletics and academics, but for friendships and good times. Even though grades are important, the experience that I have had is much more important to me. I won't remember what grades I got on the history exam, but I will remember that great times. I realistically cannot cover all of my experience but, if there is anything I could say, it is that the best thing to do is try everything. Don't be afraid to try something new because you might not be good at it, if you don't try, you won't be good anyway. May God bless, and have fun.

Today was fun. Tomorrow is another one. Every day, from here to there, funny things are everywhere.-Dr. Suess,* Well, it's over. Sometimes I really hated it but most of the time I had fun. You begin to appreciate what this place represents as you near the end.(Count how many bios that phrase appears in.(ah, you were flippant to the end(perhaps excessively so(That's quite enough of these)))) To anyone still here and reading this I order you to have as much fun as possible even when it doesn't seem possible. I extend warm healthy thanks to all of my teachers for putting up with me and my handwriting.(and to the ones who didn't, I forgive you and I'm still working on it) Shaun, Jordan, Clark, David, Neal, Jon, Andrew, Phillip, Alex, Steve, I love you all deeply and I hope all of you fulfill your deepest most soulful dreams. If there is one thing I keep learning over and over again it's that it's never as bad as I think and I'm always the one who can make it better. Events can only help push us along, but we are constantly changing and learning even when we don't know it. It may get worse and it may get better but at least it's there.

And yes, Neal, I still believe in chocolate gas.

Closing Time

Open all the doors and let you out into the world
Turn all of the lights on over every boy and every girl
One last call for alcohol so finish your whiskey or beer
You don't have to go home but you can't stay here
I know who I want to take me home

Closing Time

Time for you to go out to the places you will be from
This room won't be open until your brothers or your sisters come
So gather up your jackets, move it to the exits
I hope you have found a friend
Every new beginning comes from some other beginning's end
Take me home.

Scared and in awe at the same time, I was stupefied by MBA's appearance of unmatched greatness. Coming into the Junior School, a microbe at MBA, I was exactly that, a microbe; nothing in the eyes of others. But, MBA help turn my self perception as a microbe to a view of a human with unlimited possibilities and only finite time in achieving those possibilities. Through the interaction among my peers, friends, and faculty at MBA, I evolve into the person I am today. I want to thank all the teachers that have inspired me or just where great teachers (in no specific order): Mrs. O'Connell, Mrs. Drews, Mr. Herring, CMD. Carr, Coach Lanier, Dr. Kinch, Mr. Wims, Mr. Popovich, Coach Elliot, Coach Klausner, Mrs. Warner, Mr. Giffen, Mr. Jones, Mr. Tillman.

The truly worthwhile years at MBA are junior and senior year because of the freedom one has with a car. The more responsibilities we receive, the more freedoms we take, and the more rewards we receive. Prom night is always the best time of the year. A night out with friends and your girl, not coming home till 12 or 1 the next afternoon. Your parents asking you what happened, and you can't remember and just say nothing much. Good times.

During this time, I have been working greatly on college applications, and I have not had a great deal of time of thinking about what will happen when everyone goes to different colleges. I personally am looking for to it, but I don't want to think about not seeing my friends anymore until break.

Leading me into the memories created from MBA and during my time there. There is always the annual Greek Festival where I invite people to come visit and recruit heavily my friends to help me with it. Three 8 hour days of standing, waving, and screaming like a madman at cars and the idiot drivers where to park. The infamous foreigner statement from Clark in Carr Honors before school started is unforgettable to this day. Clark shakes his keys in front of me while I try to do work. "What are you doing, Clark?" I ask him.

"Shaking my keys."

"Why?" I ask.

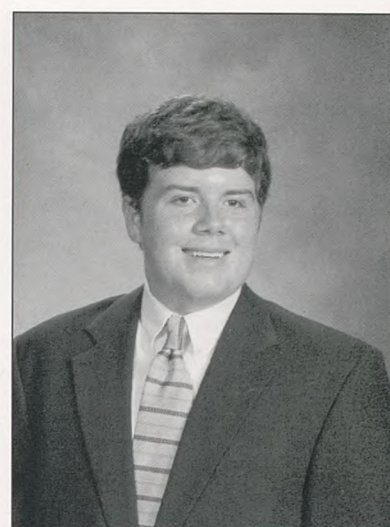

"Because all foreigners like shiny objects that make noise."

"Clark, that is terrible thing to say." He continues to shake his keys in front of my face.

"Stop that."

"No." I then punch him and he falls to the ground. Commander Carr looks at him on the ground and shrugs it off.

I must say that the past six years as an MBA Student, there have been many new learning opportunities that have come my way. When leaving MBA, I will have an appreciation for what opportunities I did and did not take advantage of. I feel, however, that an MBA education is more than just an education of academics. My experience on the Hill has given me the opportunity to find my own niche in the motto of "Gentleman, Scholar, Athlete." Having been on the eighth-grade golf team, as well as competing for the high school team as a junior and a senior, along with three years of lacrosse, has given me, contrary to popular belief (Charles), the maturity of one who is to live in a world of competition. As a scholar, I have learned that success has come from my ability take advantage of the opportunities relating to my own passions and interests. I thank Mr. Womack (Art History AP) and Madame Drews (French II) for showing me that when I can be who I truly am in a classroom setting, with a class I enjoy, success is easily obtainable. The most important part of my education at MBA, however, comes from the constant tests of being a gentleman. Mr. Regen taught me best when he told my ninth grade geometry class that because we refer to him as "Mr.," he would refer to us as "Mr." as well out of respect. These experiences have resulted into a well-rounded individual, who will remember the importance of a "Gentleman, Scholar, Athlete."

High school would not, however, be the experience it was without the amazing love that was shared between the seven dwarves. Webb (Mr. Cool), you are truly my best friend, and I look forward to many years of success with your friendship. Charles, my best friend and wingman, you have helped me along my journey as a Christian and a gentleman. Michael (#1), you have taught me the importance of relationships with your love as a friend. Scott, who has given me a greater appreciation for laughter, you have been a devoted friend, and a supporter of our golf interests, and I thank you. John (J'etais bon?), you are there next to and with all of us as you show us the importance of being an honest friend. Carter (Diabetic), I feel blessed to have you as a friend for you pave the way for those of us with obstacles yet to come in our lives, as well as giving me a wonderful appreciation for music. Matthew (Beaver), you are my new found friend, and you are one of the strongest people I know. To all of my friends, no matter where we go in life, you will all be with me. Nothing, not even a girl, will come between the love that I share for you. God Bless you all.

You have shown me how to be a man, and I hope that one day I will be half the man that you are. I will never be able to repay you for the love and support that you have given me.

To all of my friends, nothing will ever replace the relationships that I have made with you. All of you have influenced who I am and who I will become. I love all of you and I will never forget you. You have made my life at MBA as enjoyable as possible and that deserves a lot of credit. Thank you.

If I were to say one thing about my time at MBA, it would be that it has gotten me where I want to be. I won't say I particularly enjoyed a lot of it, but overall it was worth it. I want to say thanks to all my friends, my family, and most of my teachers who have supported me and helped me achieve my goals. My only advice to everyone here would be to chill out and take it easy once in a while, since the MBA community is the most remarkably uptight group of people I have ever encountered.

Take Something Like a Star

O Star (the fairest one in sight),
We grant your loftiness the right
To some obscurity of cloud -
It will not do to say of night,
Since dark is what brings out your light.
Some mystery becomes the proud.
But to be wholly taciturn
In your reserve is not allowed.
Say something to us we can learn
By heart and when alone repeat.
Say something! And it says, "I burn."
But say with what degree of heat.
Talk Fahrenheit, talk Centigrade.
Use language we can comprehend.
Tell us what elements you blend.
It gives us strangely little aid,
But does tell something in the end.
And steadfast as Keats' Eremitte,
Not even stooping from its sphere,
It asks a little of us here.
It asks of a certain height,
So when at times the mob is swayed
To carry praise or blame too far,
We may take something like a star
To stay our minds on and be staid.

Senior Prank

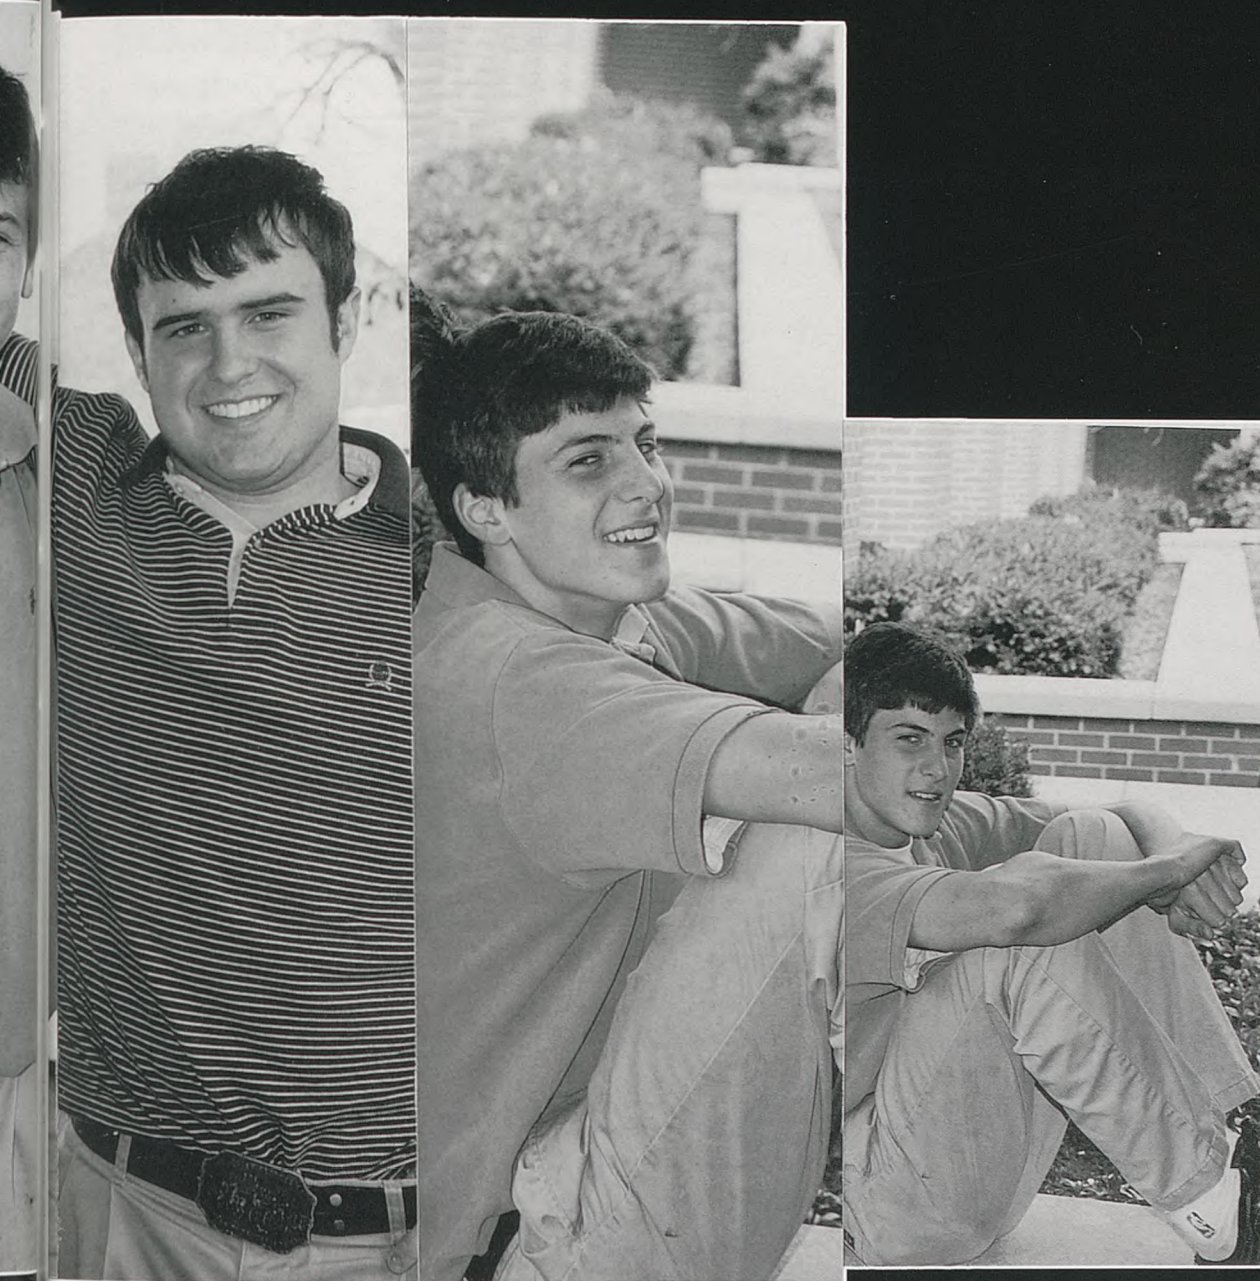

Despite the absurdity of the senior-prank negotiations between the seniors and the administration, the last day was enjoyable for those seniors who bothered to show up school. A time of grilling, dodgeball in the gym, rushing junior schoolers, and generally just sitting around doing nothing, the day yielded a different idea for a prank than exactly what the administration planned. As the students and faculty approached the quad, it was impossible to ignore the numerous cars blocking all of the sidewalks and building entrances. The bottom line: nobody was expelled nor injured.

Bradford Gioia

Headmaster

The 2003-2004 school year has been an incredible year for MBA under Headmaster Bradford Gioia. MBA has excelled in academics with our Science Olympiad Team and a record number of National Merit Scholars. In athletics the Big Red saw another Clinic Bowl victory. Throughout the year Mr. Gioia has been a constant source of leadership and support for the student body as well as the MBA community as a whole. In this year, his tenth at Montgomery Bell Academy, Mr. Gioia has continued to bring together the student body and especially the class of 2004. With such treats as Senior doughnuts and the endless patience he has shown with this rambunctious group of young men, Headmaster Gioia, has set a strong example for this graduating class.

Varsity Cross Country

The 2004 Cross Country team started training early in June with practices in the afternoon at Vaughn's Gap. Early jogs gave way to late summer and the always enjoyable cross country training camp at St. Mary's retreat in Sewanee. Competitive volley ball and two runs a day made the four days at this beautiful location pass quickly.

The team began with the Drake Invitational at the Steeplechase course. After this meet, customary training began with the much loved runs of the team: FOP, Stinker 4+, Magical Mystery, and a Commodore thrown in. The typical week consisted of a long Monday's workout either at Centennial Park or the Steeplechase, Tuesdays and Thursdays at the SEC, Wednesdays for recovery, and a healthy but tiring dose of hilly Saturdays. These intense workouts led to later triumphs and, unfortunately, some injuries, namely Will DeLoache's shin splints or the patches of dead skin sloughing from Brock Baker's feet.

The 2004 team had its usual success at such meets as the Tennessee Classic, A.F. Bridges, and a fair showing at MBA's maybe last appearance at the Lexington Catholic Invitational.

During the season, the weather was typically hot on race days and a warm seventy degrees at the state meet. The temperature took its toll on the team with decreased performances and diminished improvements in PR's.

The season was punctuated with the annual Breakfast Run at the Bracikowski's largely because of the great marking ability of the team's only senior, Phillip Bracikowski. He very rarely had difficulty keeping the troops in line during group stretch and the legendary silent runs after the acclaimed visualizations before major Saturday races.

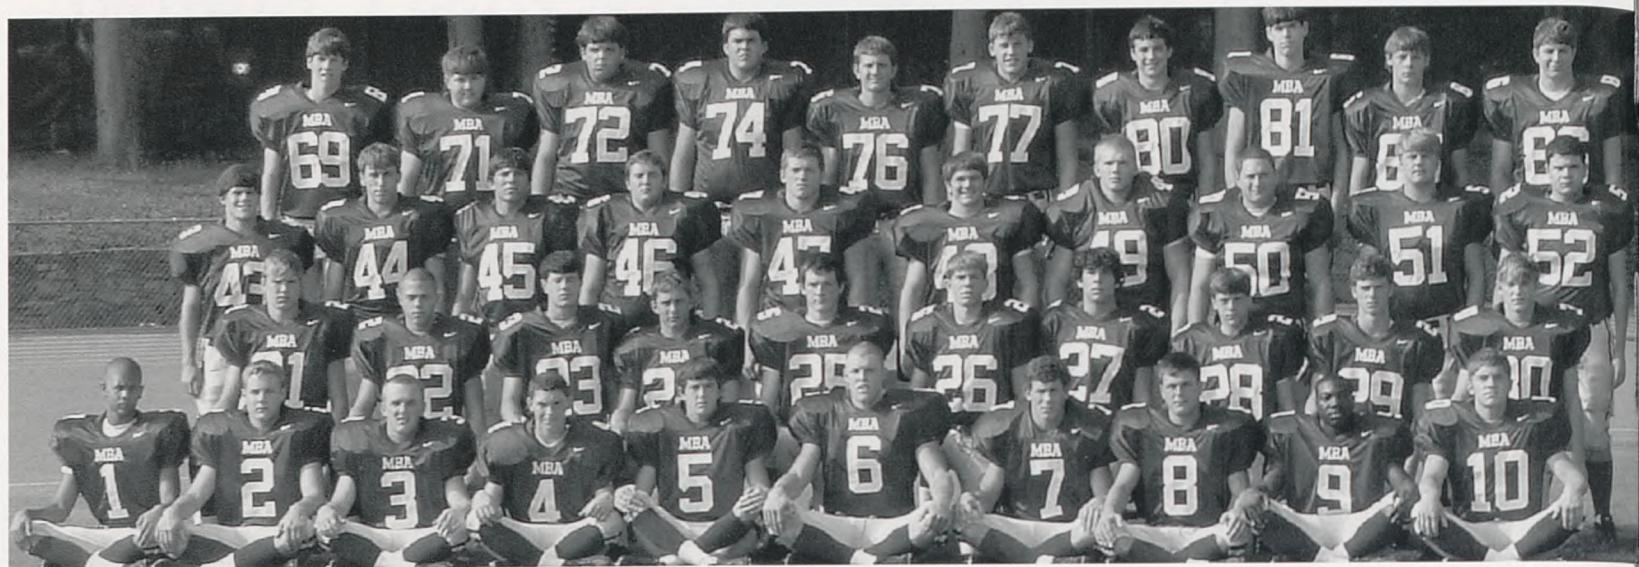

JV continued to dominate in the Metro and Region Championships. Because of injuries, the Varsity shuffled Will DeLoach, Phillip Bracikowski, Chris Gioia, freshman Beveridge Stockton, and Andrew Pitman on and off the top team of seven and still succeeded in placing second in the Region Championship. In the state, the varsity finished fifth against some of the stiffest competition in several years. This year's team was one of the youngest ever, and great performances are expected of them in the future. Go Big Red!

The entire team would like to thank Coach Pruitt, Coach De Young, and Coach Russ for a successful season. I personally would like to express my appreciation for these wonderful individuals who have made my cross country career, although not stunning, one of my best experiences at MBA. Go Team 2004!

Varsity Football

The Big Red opened the season to a crowd of more than 6,000 fans watching them take on the #4 team in the nation, Louisville Trinity. Yet MBA was undaunted, beating the Shamrocks 17-14. The Big Red was powered by the high-octane passing attack from Michael Fisher and Brad French and a bruising rushing attack led by Ryan Burns and Michael Koban.

Coming off a huge win, the Big Red downed the LaVergne Wolverines 29-0. Then Coach Rutledge led the Big Red across the state border and faced the #3 team in Mississippi, Southaven Chargers, defeating them by a sound score of 43-15.

With a national ranking on the line, the Big Red traveled to Franklin to face a volatile and dangerous Battle Ground Academy. The Red beat the Wildcats 24-10 in a hard-fought game. The team hit the road again for their first divisional game against Baylor. MBA overwhelmed the Raiders, defeating them 42-14.

Father Ryan, a brutal team to play, was waiting to oppose the MBA team. The Big Red thrashed the Fighting Irish 36-22. The next week, the team faced a threatening McCallie team. In front of the homecoming court and a packed crowd, the Big Red stomped the Blue Tornadoes 38-9. MBA traveled to Memphis to take on undefeated Christian Brothers, with one of the most unforgiving defenses in the state. On a soggy field, the Big Red rolled over the Purple Wave 13-7 in a hard-hitting game.

After a week off, the Big Red stepped back into action against Memphis University School, laying the Owls aside with a score of 40-7. Since appearing in the USA Today "Super 25," the Big Red had been climbing each week, eventually reaching number nine in the country. Having secured the number one seed in Division II-AAA, the Big Red traveled on Halloween to face the Brentwood Academy Eagles.

Due to a controversial call at the end of play, allowing BA to tie the game at 24, the Big Red lost the game in overtime on a missed field goal by a score of 24-27.

The next week, the Big Red set out for blood, easily defeating an improved McCallie team 28-10. Then Brentwood Academy Eagles and the Montgomery Bell Academy Big Red fought again on November 22nd for the title of "State Champions." (See next page for details.) The scoreboard read 38-14 at the end of regulation. The Big Red ended the season 11-1 and number 15 in the country.

Thanks to the seniors who will be sorely missed. Thanks to the coaches who had the dedication to lead the team to another state championship. Thank you to the fans, as well as all the parents who made this season possible. Congratulations to the 2003 State Championship Football Team on a great season and another state title!

Clinic Bowl 2003

Final: MBA 38 BA 14

Saturday 11-22-2003

Just three weeks after their first meeting, the Brentwood Academy Eagles and the Montgomery Bell Academy Big Red found themselves under the lights of Dudley field on November 22nd to play each other for the state title. With an impressive acrobatic display from the receivers, a bone-crushing ground attack, and the four-plus seconds allowed for a poised Michael Fisher, the Big Red offense dominated the Eagle defense, accumulating 513 total yards of offense. The defense held one of the highest scoring teams in the state to just 14 points and 215 yards. The scoreboard read 38-14 at the end of regulation, giving MBA sweet revenge before a record-setting crowd and a sign on the BA side which read, "Excuses, Excuses." The Big Red certainly needed no excuses in this game.

Before the school year started, the golf team was hard at work practicing for what was to be a very eventful season. The year got off to a great start as a five man team led by Mac Keith, Webb White, Lee White, Trey Kendall, and Jeff Newman placed third out of eighteen teams which competed in the Stan McNabb Automotive Golf Classic. Webb White placed tenth place in a field of ninety competing players. Two weeks later, the team went to the Country Club of Franklin to play in one of the year's biggest tournaments, the Bruin Invitational. Mac Keith had the low round with a seventy-five, followed by Jordan Keckley's seventy-six. With a combined score of 309, the team place fifth out of 19 teams.

The team played well in mid-season, competing against these key competitors: Clarksville High School, BA, and BGA. Throughout the season, Dylan Burroughs, Jordan Keckley, Lee White, Jeff Newman, Mac Keith, and Webb White all had the low round at least one time. Losing to USN was easily considered to be the low point in the season, but there would be many high points to come. The team overcame their devastating loss by demolishing Father Ryan on their home course. It was an exciting match led by Lee White resulting in a victory over the Irish by twenty-four strokes.

At the beginning of the year, Coach Caldwell was all but excited by the senior leadership. But to his surprise, Lee and Webb White pulled up their golf socks and exhibited a measure of maturity on and off of the course. At the conclusion of the season, Webb White led the team with an average of 37.5, an average even Brandt Snedeker would be impressed with. He was the only player on the team to have a round under par, shooting a thirty-three and a thirty-four in the last week of the season. On September 29th, the team traveled to Harpeth Hills to play in the region tournament. Despite some mediocre play, the team finished second and advanced to the state tournament in Tullahoma. At the state championship, the team opened with a score of 312, led by Webb White's 74. The team finished with a total score of 637 and with a 6th place finish highlighted by Lee's second round of 73.

The golf team thanks Mr. Rutledge and the rest of the MBA community for the support given to the golf team. Special thanks are also given to Coach Mike Caldwell who so graciously devoted his time to the MBA golf program over the years.

Varsity Rifle

The Montgomery Bell Rifle Team had its most successful season to date. The team finished with a record of 8 wins, 1 loss, and 1 tie. The team started the season by setting a new school record of 2309 out of a possible 2400 against Seneca High School in Louisville, Kentucky. Unfortunately, this record came a few weeks early as the team finished 4th in the annual MBA Rifle Classic, the largest high-school competition, attracting around 340 competitors from 10 states. MBA's next competition came at St. Louis University High School in St. Louis, Missouri, where the team registered the first tie in MBA Rifle history.

The team then traveled to Ft. Benning, Georgia, for the Gary Anderson Invitational, in which the team placed 4th overall. The only loss of the season came in February, losing to the national champion, Shelby County High School in Shelbyville, Kentucky. The team trailed by a mere 19 points after the air rifle competition, and shot a close match the next day in smallbore. The team finished the season as dual state champions with wins in the Alabama, Tennessee, and Junior Olympic state championships. In the process, the team set a new record in the Tennessee High School State Championship by 7 points, a record previously held by MBA.

Over spring break, the team had its annual training session with sports psychologist Dr. Lance Miller, Ph.D., and Bill Krilling, former Olympic team and Army Marksmanship Unit coach at Fort Benning, Georgia. The team learned a lot from both coaches: from Bill Krilling, they learned priceless position knowledge, and from Dr. Miller they learned about the mental facets of the shooting sports. Meanwhile, David Amiot, our top shooter, went to the National Junior Olympic Rifle Championship in the Olympic Training Center at Colorado Springs, and placed 17th nationally. For the first time in three years, the team has graduating seniors. David Amiot has earned an athletic appointment to the United States Military Academy at West Point. Jesse Richards is a National Merit finalist and is going to University of Oklahoma.

Varsity Basketball

This year's basketball team came into the season with high hopes of building a new foundation for MBA Basketball. After last year's team won only five games, this year's team had a new coach, Kevin Anglin, and one main goal: qualifying for the state tournament. The season started off very slowly as many of the big providers were still involved with football. Once the full roster was intact, it still lacked much senior support so the team called on the junior and sophomore classes for big contributions. Deion Gaines, the lone sophomore starter, ran the team at point guard while juniors James Thomas Patterson, C.J. Hurt, Jay Pilkerton, Hughes Tipton, and Brenton Harrison all played significant parts to the team's success. Brad French, the only senior starter and one of two on the team, gave the team the experience needed to make the team goal.

The MBA basketball team had a very successful year with fourteen wins and victories over good teams in route to a state playoff bid. Key victories included wins over Christian Brothers, who finished second in the state, BGA, who only lost one game in the region, Shelbyville, where French scored six points in the last twelve seconds to secure a one-point victory, and a region tournament win over USN, which secured a spot in the state playoffs. French was named to the All-Region Team and the All-Region Tournament Team. A special thanks goes out to senior Branch Howard, who worked hard all year without complaint and provided the team with senior leadership, and senior Gregory McCord, who helped the team greatly with his contributions off the court.

Bowling

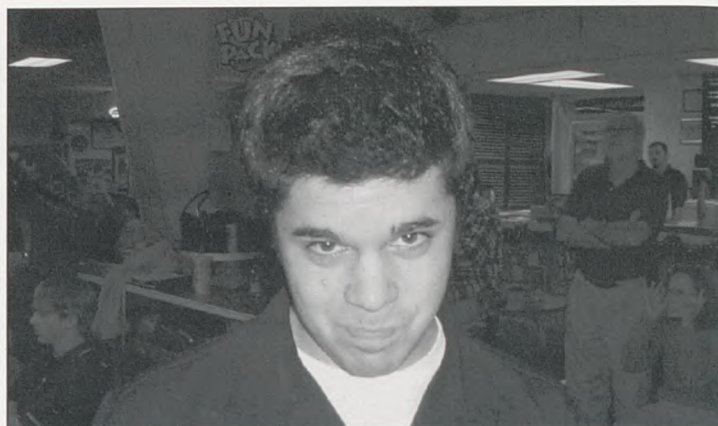

The 2003-2004 Bowling Team had a stellar year. Reaching record levels in wins and coolness, the unstoppable Big Red Bowling Machine asserted its dominance over all comers in Division II. Led by senior captain David "Andrew" Eskind and his magical Jew fro, the Big Red jumped out of the gate at a staggering pace, winning their first 15 games. CDR. Carr kept the team grounded, however, reminding them that they were bowling for G-d and country, and that celebrations with Ace of Bass in the parking lot could be viewed as arrogant and reflect poorly on the school.

Nevertheless, the team was confident as they rolled into the state tournament down in the bowling capital of the world, Smyrna, Tennessee. With a #1 seed and stomachs that could hold more fried foods than most bowling alleys are capable of producing, Carr's bowling men were on cloud nine. Stomping Brier Crest and Baylor in rounds 1 and 2, all that stood between these men of honor and their goal was the formidable Christian Brothers bowling squad. As Christian Brothers took the lanes wearing their 2002-2003 state champion jackets, the Big Red knew they had their work cut out for them. The match was intense to say the least. Blood, sweat, and pure determination flowed from the pores of the bowlers, and after two games, MBA was in the lead.

However, not every tale can have a happy ending, and it has been said that tragedy is perhaps the greatest form of drama; yes my friends, I am afraid that this tale I tell is a tragedy, for in game three Christian Brothers unleashed a fit of bowling magic that would have amazed G-d himself. When the smoke cleared, the Big Red had fallen. But do not cry my friend, with returning starters Will Freeman, Scott Vaughn, David Bilhartz, and Rand "I'm in high school now" Woodson, the Big Red Bowling machine is sure to dominate next year as well.

Hockey

The MBA hockey team finished their 2003-2004 season third in the district and sixth in the league of sixteen teams with a record of 8-4-3. Highlights of the season included a 6-2 win over the Centennial A (first time in MBA history to beat Centennial A), a 5-3 win over the combined Hume Fogg/USN team, and the 6-0 win over Father Ryan.

Assistant captains—who rotated for home and away games—included Alex Mazzoni, Dylan Richey, Max Douglas, and Bill Brown with Nathan Dudney as the head captain. Point leaders were Walker Matthews and Max Douglas in the regular season with Robert Phipps having the most points in the tournament. Walker Matthew finished the season as the team's point leader. Goalie James Fuqua was ranked sixth of the league's twenty-five goalies. He finished the season with a GAA (goals against average) of 1.55 and seven shut-outs. Mark Piana, Robert Phipps, and Jed Crumbo all had hat tricks over the course of the season.

Stats aside, MBA hockey has a bright future. In the midst of coaching transitions and the losing of key players, MBA advanced to the semifinals of the tournament. Although the team is losing nine seniors, the strong freshman and sophomore classes gained a lot of experience in the regular season and tournament; experience that will have great rewards the following seasons.

Swimming

This year's MBA swimming and diving team had an excellent year. After a successful dual meet season, MBA finished 4th in the region and 8th in the state. This year's team, however, had a unique year for MBA swimming. There were no seniors on the team and instead of having MBA practices, swimmers either swam with the Nashville Aquatic Club through a partnership that MBA set up or on their own. This year the swimming team also enjoyed excellent coaching. Coach Carter continued his tenure as head coach and was assisted by Jeremy Kane, a former star swimmer at MBA, and Coach Villavicencio.

Team Captains, Paul Crook and Van Diehl, had a remarkable season as well: both achieved All-American status for their races during the state meet. At the meet, Paul finished 4th in the 200 freestyle and 8th in the 100 freestyle. Van finished 2nd in the 100 butterfly. Look for Paul and Van to do better next year as they become seniors.

The medley relay team of Paul Crook, Van Diehl, Tom Wiseman, and Tripp Rebrovick finished 2nd by less than one tenth of a second in the region meet and 5th in the state meet.

The future of MBA swimming looks bright as well. Paul and Van will be seniors next year, Tom Wiseman, the last of the 5-year letter winners at MBA due to a rule change for Tennessee Swimming, will be a sophomore, and two incoming eighth graders, Curtis Lovelace and Tyler Ramsden, hold great promise.

MBA diving also had a great season. After losing one of our top divers, Will Bundy, the team still did great at the state meet. Spencer Cummings finished 8th in the state and Tyler Ramsden qualified for the state meet.

The MBA swimming and diving team had a great year, with only good things expected in years to come.

Ultimate Frisbee

As the Montgomery Bell Academy "Los Banditos" began their third year of ultimate frisbee at the Big Red, the team had high hopes for the season. Having competed closely with some of the best teams in the nation the year before, they had their sights set on Portland, Oregon, where this year's Nationals tournament would be held. In late November, a few weeks after official practice had started, a seven-person co-ed team of Forbes Belk, Will DeLoache, Sarah Norton, Carolyn Riley, Matt Smith, and Coach Russ, traveled to Huntsville, Alabama, for a Thanksgiving "savage" tournament. The competition was of all ages, and unfortunately our team couldn't handle the consistency of the old-timers and went home winless.

In the next three months, the team regrouped and put together a delta force of fourteen athletes who would represent MBA in McCallie's Deep Freeze tournament. The indomitable squad of Tyler Augusty, Wynne Barton, Forbes Belk, Phil Bracikowski, Will DeLoache, Taylor Gould, Curtis Lane, David Reynolds, Nick Rhoda, Pierce Sandwith, Kevin Seitz, Matt Smith (10), Grant Thomas, and Jake Wright packed their bags for Chattanooga on February 6th and planned to leave for a weekend long trip which would hopefully qualify them for Nationals. However, tragedy struck as a two-day long thunderstorm flooded the McCallie fields. To the team's great disappointment, their only real tournament which they would play in before Nationals qualifying had ended was canceled.

Although that week marked the official end of Ultimate, since it is a spring sport at most schools, MBA's real season doesn't end until school is out. Periodic scrimmages with rival, Brutal Grassburn from USN, helped to keep the post-season rustiness to a minimum. The final tournament that the team would play in was USN's Mary Interlandi Invitational. It drew some of the most competitive junior's teams in America, coming from as far as Wisconsin. After two full days of Ultimate the lack of practice was clearly visible. USN, whom the team had beaten consistently early in the year, had now transformed into a dream team under the leadership of Craig Stewart and blew the competition out of the water. The Los Banditos ended up winning four and losing three, putting them in a disappointing 5th for the tournament.

This concluded a rather anti-climatic year for the team, but it did carry with it hope for the future. The arrival of official Ultimate frisbee jerseys late into the season is sure to make an impact in the years to come. Also, next year will see the return of all but two Ultimate studs, and while Phil and Tyler will be sorely missed, eight returning seniors will fill the roster of a nationally contending team. The whole team would like to say thank you to Coach Russ who has dedicated his time and enthusiasm to the Ultimate team for three years. Without him, there would be no one to organize a season's worth of practices, scrimmages, and three-day trips to tournaments. We ask that any and all who have an interest in playing Ultimate at any level of competition sign up and participate next year. As the sport grows across the country, juniors teams are being created constantly, and we hope that MBA will establish itself as one of the best in the years to come.

Varsity Wrestling

The wrestling team did exceptionally well this year considering it was a rebuilding year. We had strong senior leadership on the team, but for most of them, it was their first time starting. Our Juniors were pretty strong and will be great leaders on the team next year. There were also some sophomores that made the lineup who have great potential. We had three freshman join the team, one of them being a starter.

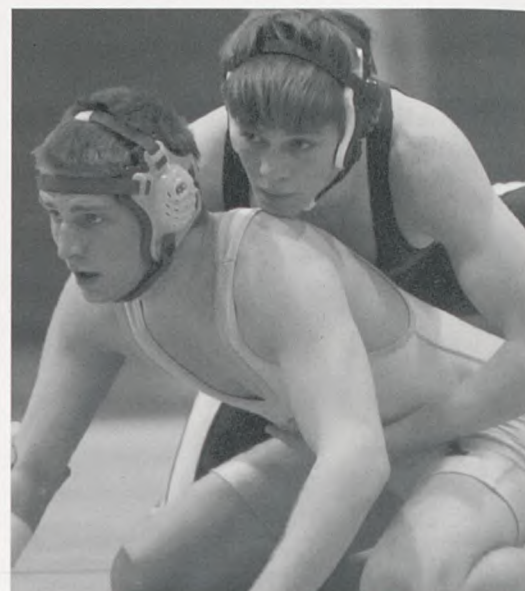

Because of the patience of our great coaches, the wrestling team developed into the close-knit team. I speak for all the captains of the wrestling team this year when I say how very proud I am of the way the team stuck together through our hard times and long practices. Even through the worst time of the year when captain James Dade was seriously injured in the Kenwood tournament, the team stuck together and finished the next two dual matches with last match wins that gave us the first dual tournament win in MBA's wrestling history.

The team did well in the state dual tournament, finishing 4th place. We had wrestled the Christian Brothers team in a close match the round before, where we beat them with much pride and sent them packing. At the individual tournament the team finished 5th with one state champion, two state runner-ups, one 3rd placer, two 4th placers, one 5th placer, and one 7th placer. From the captains of the 2003-2004 MBA wrestling team, thank you for a great year to all the wrestlers and to Coach Jenkins, Coach McBride, and Coach Simpson.

Varsity Baseball

For the first time since 1994, the MBA baseball team won the TSSAA division II State Baseball Championship. The Big Red defeated a very good Christian Brothers team 7-6 in the finals of the Memphis Spring Fling State Tournament, thanks to solid pitching performances by seniors Wylie Jones and Brad French and key hits by Brian Harris, Michael Fisher and others. The Big Red's victory in the finals followed a strong run through the upper bracket of the state tournament that included two victories over Southern Baptist Educational Center and a second round win against the second seed, Baylor. The team faced SBEC in a hard fought first round match up and, despite the Trojan's solid effort, won 8-7 with senior Scott Pettus starting on the mound, followed by Harris in relief. MBA then faced Baylor and, thanks to a dominating offensive performance and strong pitching from senior French, won 8-5. Although the game was quite close through the first few innings, being tied at 1-1 and 2-2 at various points, the team began to pull away. Harris' bases-loaded double off the top of the left field wall of AutoZone park, home of the minor league Memphis Redbirds, scored three and gave MBA a 6-2 lead that held until the final inning when a run from Fisher held off the Purple Wave's final offensive charge. With Pettus going 8 for 13 (.615 batting average) and French going 9 for 15 (.600) with a triple, two home runs and 9 runs batted in, the team hit an outstanding .365 for the tournament. Add to this offensive power a 4-0 pitching record and a 3.75 team earned run average, and it is easy to see why MBA came home from Memphis as champions. This year's State Championship victory came under the veteran leadership of head coach Thomas Wims and the strong assistance of MBA graduates and players Mike Anderson and Mike Martin, and University of Nevada graduate and minorleague pitcher Matt Wells. A solid core of seniors including Cole Bourland, Michael Fisher, Brad French, Justin Games, Clay Haury, Wylie Jones, Scott Pettus, and Matt Smith provided the leadership on which the Big Red rode to the championship. With Pettus, French, Jones and Games accounting for four of the five positions in the starting pitching rotation, and Fisher, Haury, Smith, and Bourland providing the bulk of the offense that the Big Red lived on, the team will undoubtedly miss the class of '04.

Varsity Lacrosse

The MBA Varsity lacrosse team had a successful 2004 season, finishing with a 14-3 record, with important wins over rivals McCallie and MUS. Despite a disappointing loss in the state tournament, the growth of this very young team over the course of the season must not be overlooked. The lacrosse team began the season with an annual spring break trip. This year's trip took the team to Atlanta, where they played two very talented Georgia teams, Chattahoochie and Westminster. While the beat Chattahoochie 12-6, a 6-13 loss to Westminster showed the team they needed much improvement. This improvement came over the course of the next several weeks as MBA looked for revenge from last year's heartbreaking loss to MUS in the finals. With consecutive wins over Father Ryan (16-1), Parkway South (21-5), Centennial (16-2), USN (8-4), Farragut (15-7), and West Potomac (24-8), the Big Red lacrosse team now with a record of 7-1, began to gain some major confidence as the team grew as a unit. A midseason loss to McCallie (7-11) reminded the players that they still had many areas to improve on. A week of hard practices after the loss prepared the team for a showdown with MUS in Memphis, a team holding an undefeated record thus far in their season. The Big Red came together and played to their fullest potential, beating MUS by the score of 11-7. The schedule didn't get any easier after that, with a rematch against McCallie and an important game against Christian Brothers over the next two weeks. The rematch against McCallie was possibly the defining point for the Varsity Lacrosse team this year. Down 10-6 in the 3rd quarter, MBA's team showed true heart as they regrouped and scored 4 unanswered goals in the second half. In sudden death overtime, the team again showed their determination by scoring the final goal and coming out with a victory. The confidence inspired by this win helped them to defeat Christian Brothers the next week by a score of 16-7. Despite the enormous growth of this lacrosse team the team lost in the championship. Key to the success of MBA's team this year was the coaching staff: Coach Cooper, Coach Harvey, Coach Smith, Coach Yanicky, and Coach Speers. Also important to the team's success was great leadership by captains Ryan Burns, Scott Hagan, Alex Juskiewicz, and David Regan. Ryan Burns was named All-American for his efforts at attack. At midfield, Hunter Armistead and Jed Crumbo made first team All-State, along with Ben Turk at defense and David Regan at goalie. Second team All-State was awarded to James Banker, Taylor Tate, and Clay Caroland, and Chris Cahill and Sam Hodgson received honorable mention. Overall the 2004 Varsity lacrosse team had a great season.

Varsity Soccer

The Varsity Soccer team finished the 2004 season ranked fourth in the region with a record of 7-6-3. Leadership this year was provided by an outstanding group of seniors who have played together since the seventh grade. The team won an outstanding victory over Grisson, the number-one ranked team in Alabama in a 1-0 victory with Corey Burton scoring the winning goal. Burton ('04) also scored the winning goal against Father Ryan in the regular season. The Big Red managed to trounce the Irish in an emotional victory at Father Ryan in front of a huge anti-MBA crowd during their own senior night. The captains for the year were Michael Koban, David Harper, and Jake Lawrence. David Harper received the award for Most Outstanding Defender on the team. Jake Lawrence received the Fort Award for determination, leadership, and love of the game. The team, despite its valiant effort in the region tournament, was not able to win a spot in the state tournament. Many thanks though to Coaches John Lanier and Dick Klausner. (Also, I'd like to thank the team for being as kind to me as they were and for making me feel like I was a member of the team for the four years that I was with them.)

Varsity Tennis

The 2004 Tennis Team began its season with the ultimate goal of defending the state team crown it had snatched from rival MUS a year earlier. Although the Big Red was the defending champ, it was still portrayed in the local media and across the state as the underdog, second to MUS. Under first-year head coach Mark Sutton, The Big Red felt as if they still had something to prove, and they began the season with a chip on its shoulder, tearing apart the competition. In the first big weekend of the season, MBA soundly beat perennial rival Mcallie 8-1 and then competed in the Chattanooga Rotary at the cross-town Baylor school. The team had a similar showing at the Carter, in which, inspired by scores of rowdy fans knowing absolutely nothing about tennis and yelling at all the wrong times, the team took the title with strong showings all around. The MBA tennis team finished the regular season with a record of 11-1, with the only loss coming in Atlanta at the Buckhead Rotary. The Big Red entered the state tournament with one goal in mind: beat MUS. Sure enough, both powerhouses advanced to the finals for a fourth straight year. In the race to four victories, the Big Red jumped out to an early 2-0 lead, as team leaders Ted Tywang and Dwight Dale had the matches of their career, humiliating the MUS Owls they faced at 1 and 3 singles respectively. With Naftilan, Boyd, and Baker all battling their hearts out, Tywang and Dale could hardly contain their excitement at the prospect of a second straight title. Naftilan lost, then Boyd and Baker lost 6-4 in and 7-5 in the third, respectively. The Big Red's momentum had been killed, but it headed to doubles just as they had the year before, down 3-2 and needing wins from both doubles teams. The #2 team proved too much for the Big Red, and MUS clinched its 6th state title in seven years. Although the loss was obviously crushing and hard to swallow, everyone had given it their all. Prospects for next year's team remain strong, for although the Big Red will sorely miss the senior trio of Tywang, Dale, and Naftilan, they are followed by a strong class. Thanks to the Coach Sutton and Coach Bailey for their dedication.

Varsity Track

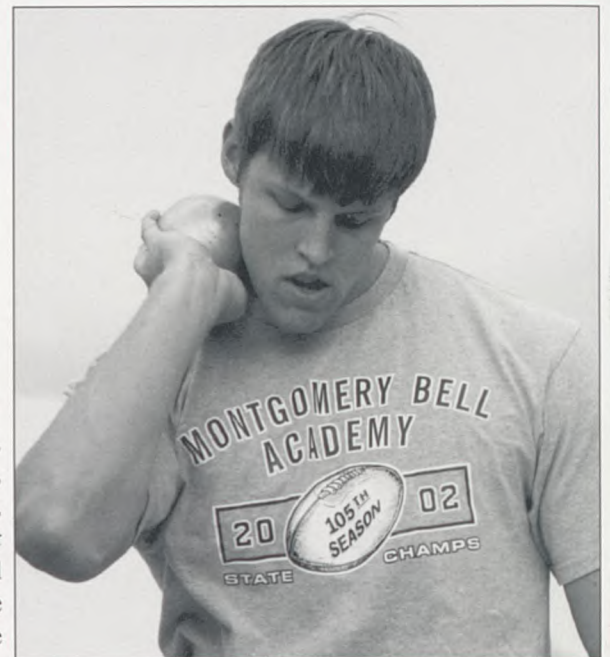

Aided by strong performances in the decathlon, pole vault, and relay events, the MBA track team fought its way to a fourth-place finish in the Division II State Track Meet. After two days of competition at Briarcrest in Memphis, the Big Red finished behind Baylor, McCallie, and Brentwood Academy. Having qualified in all four of the relays (4x100, 4x200, 4x400, 4x800 meters) and in every field event except discus and long jump, the Big Red was poised to perform well. Although the Big Red qualified only two individual runners in the open events, MBA showed its depth through its impressive performance in the relays. The 4x100 and 4x200 meter relay teams (Matthew Jacques, Tom Santi, Drew Carney, Wilson Robinson) both finished third, and the 4x400 relay (Jacques, Carney, Robinson, Jeff Snyder) finished second. MBA's only state champions were the members of the 4x800 relay team (Chambliss Shillinglaw, Andrew Pitman, Michael Pierce, Jeff Snyder), which, after gaining the lead during the first leg, never looked back and cruised to a first place finish by five seconds over McCallie in a time of 8:15. The relay could have been run even faster, but after dominating performances in the first three legs, MBA was so far ahead of the second place team that the anchor, Jeff Snyder, was able to save his energy for the 4x400 relay and jog a time much slower than his MBA school-record best time of 1:55.1. On a day in which MBA success was dominated by team relay performances, Jeff Snyder shone as an individual for his remarkable achievement. He scored in three events (pole vault, 4x400, 4x800), and most notably with his state championship in the 4x800 relay became one of the very few four-time state champions in MBA's history, in any sport. MBA has displayed its distance depth nicely by winning the 4x800 relay each of the last four years, and each of those years Jeff Snyder was an integral member of the state champion relay, running the anchor leg for the last two years. He also holds the school record for the 800 meter run, and the second-best mark ever in pole vault. Jeff and all the seniors have been important to this year's track team not only because of their performances on the track (scoring 30.5 out of the 62.5 points the team scored at this year's state meet), but also because of their leadership. With many talented athletes returning next year, MBA will look to improve on this year's fourth place finish in next year's state meet.

The Bell

Editors: Steve Vutsinas
Neal Idnani

The Bell had a record breaking year for the 2003-2004 school year. The tremendous staff of dedicated students led by Steve Vutsinas and Neal Idnani worked through the summer prior to the start of the school year in order to plan out every page of the book. The 2004 Bell yields not only the largest number of pages for any MBA yearbook yet at 376, but also boasts one of the earliest completion dates of any staff in the past several years.

Despite the loss of several staff members and the accidental deletion of seventy pages of senior bios by a corrupted external hard drive, the staff pulled through with section editors taking on additional duties in order to finish the book as quickly as possible. With the newly renovated yearbook office in its prime location in the basement of Ball, the subterranean lair provided a wonderful environment for countless hours spent laying out pages. The staff and myself offer great thanks to all who helped in the completion of our book no matter how miniscule their contribution may have been. Whether the article for some club or countless pictures that we needed to finish a layout, thanks to everyone who helped.

The Bell Ringer, now in its sixtieth year as the student voice on the Hill, prospered this year under the leadership of its editors. Breaking a recent streak of two-man control of the paper, Editor-in-Chief Christopher Schuller began the year with a complete redesign of the paper's look, both continuing last year's switch to newsprint for a more professional appearance and returning to design elements evoking the classic Bell Ringer through the years.

Sports Editor Curtis Lane covered the year's highly emotional football season, News and Features associates Max Douglas and Hunter Branstetter kept the paper relevant to campus life, Entertainment Editor Chris Gioia maintained the popularity and culture of the paper, and photography was edited and collected by section Editor Will DeLoache. The artistic talent of Bill Brown brought a new dimension to the visual appeal of the BR, and Matt Burch and Jonathan Gluck supported the efforts of the editors with advertisement sales.

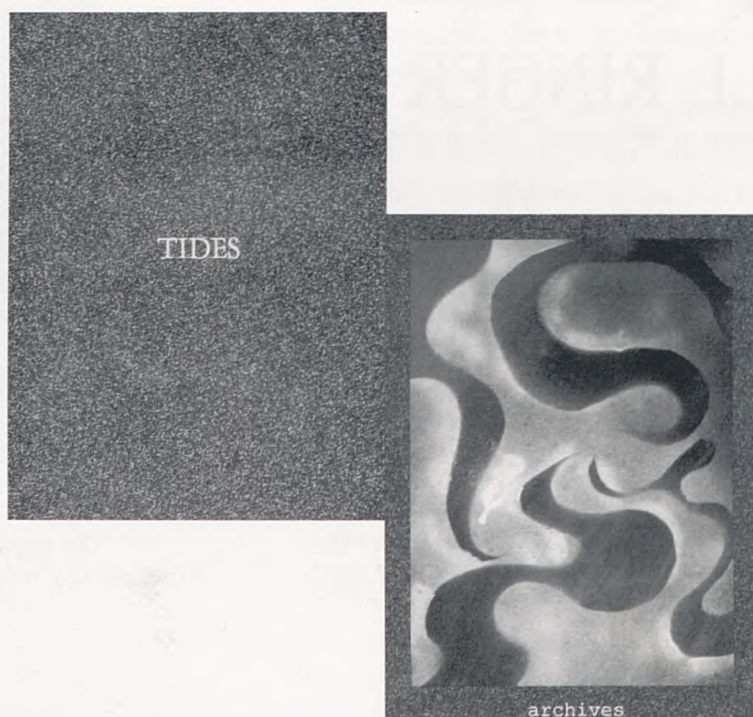

The paper's eight issues reached a broad MBA and city audience, and the tradition continues...

ARCHIVES

Entering its twenty-second year, Archives served yet again to encourage creative writing and provide everyone at MBA a creative outlet for both artistic and literary expression. As the only student-run literary publication on campus, Archives hopes to supply the community an organization meeting their literary desires. This year, the Archives published two issues displaying the best MBA's creative community had to offer. Archives continues to maintain the strong tradition of southern literature that has graced MBA's campus for over two decades. The magazine has grown to be an institution in and of itself, which will continue to please MBA students looking for a creative outlet for free thought outside of academics.

After lying dormant for two years, MBA's satiric magazine The Bell Breaker resurfaced to provide students with a humorous and somewhat ridiculous escape from the monotony of everyday life. Scholars and national heroes Taylor Gould, Grant Thomas, Nick Rhoda, Andrew Barge, and Caldwell Tanner led this long-wanted revival, publishing one glorious issue in the 2003-2004 school year.

SERVICE CLUB

The Presidents: Neal Idnani and Jonathan Gluck

Vice President:
Phillip Bracikowski

Sergeant-at-Arms:
Taylor Barnett

Led by co-presidents Neal Idnani and Jonathan Gluck, the Service Club had another successful year. Further senior leadership was provided by Vice-President Phillip Bracikowski and Sergeant-at-Arms Taylor Barnett, as well as numerous project leaders and volunteers. The Service Club worked on many of its usual projects, including Beaman Park, Time to Rise, Hispanic Achievers, and Special Olympics and also undertook a food drive and a clothing and supplies drive for homeless teens. Thanks to MBA board members, who donate their property, giving us space to park cars, a considerable amount of money was raised through Vandy and Titans parking to fund other projects such as Preston Taylor. An MBA favorite project, Soup Kitchen, continued in fine form with Neal "biscuitman" Idnani and the Squeaky Clean Commandos (Shaun McFall, Patrick Shanley, and Bracey Wilson) providing regular help. The Service Club would like to thank faculty members who played a large role in ensuring the success of the club, including Mr. Threalkill, Mr. Chenery, Dr. Clark, Mr. Whitfield, Mrs. Villavicencio, and CDR Carr. If we left you off this list, don't worry; we still love you and are much appreciative of your help.

SPECIAL OLYMPICS

Special Olympics went very well this year with leadership from the co-presidents, Jay Pilkerton and Brewer Adams. There was an affiliation with The Metro Parks Camp and MBA to help train kids who were actually participating in the 2004 Special Olympic Games and for handicapped children who just wanted to have fun. We would play sports, such as soccer, track, and basketball, according to their season on the second Saturday of each month. One Saturday MBA took the athletes bowling where we enjoyed food and bowling. During the spring, MBA and Harpeth Hall helped train the athletes for tennis. Unfortunately, the rain limited us and we ended up playing battle-ball in the gym. In our last meeting with the athletes, we enjoyed a cook-out where we played a number of games. In the spring, eight juniors represented MBA at a Special Olympics fundraiser led by Frank Wycheck. There was much support from the sophomore and junior classes, along with Pascha Swett and Jamie Redmond.

THEATER CLUB

The MBA Theater Club enjoyed one of its most productive years to date with not only two plays, a musical, and the one acts, but also an improv night put on by the club that raised over three hundred dollars for the Oasis Center's Street Outreach to Homeless Teens Program. Productions put on by the theater club this year included the musical Anything Goes, starring Ben Pote, Gregory McCord, and Tyler Augusty, The Acharnians, starring Christopher Sculler, The Foreigner, starring Ben Pote, Douglas Altenbern, Richard Jacques, Chase Altenbern, Rachel Howell, Zoe Stein, and Sam Macdonald, and the Student Directed One Acts which included plays directed by Ben Pote, Gregory McCord, Harris Hornbuckle, Matt Naftilan, and Ted Tywang. Also, this year the MBA theater program was recognized as one of the top fifty high school theater programs in the country.

HISPANIC ACHIEVERS

Hispanic Achievers is a mentoring-based program for Hispanic youth in grades seven through twelve. Hispanic Achievers encourages academic achievement, social development and personal growth among Hispanic Youth. In Nashville, this is a two-year old program, sponsored by the YMCA of Middle Tennessee, and it has more than 200 Hispanic children enrolled. A group of MBA students and Sra. Villavicencio offer English classes for the parents who want to learn the language. These classes are provided free of charge at Belmont University on Saturdays. In December we sponsored a Christmas party for the Hispanic Achievers' families. The work that these students from MBA do has been recognized by the Hispanic community in Nashville, Tennessee. Dennis Bermudez received a Youth Leadership Award from the YMCA of Middle Tennessee on April 22.

FCA was blessed this year with increased numbers and great events. Some of the highlights included Chris Rice's concert and Impact Weekend. Matt Barnes led this year, helped out by vice-president Lipscomb Davis, Recruiter Andrew Mills, Secretary Matt Doster, and Treasurer Will Bundy.

PLBGA

The Big Red's Professional Lunch-Box Golf Association entered its 4th straight year at MBA with enthusiasm and more than a bit of sadness as it was well-known that presidents and co-founders Patrick Shanley and Clark Shell would soon be gone. Nevertheless, all members played furiously, giving their all to make this the greatest season ever. Evoking the memory of Blackbeard, Trevor Redding gave us the best game of the year. Michael "Cougar" Kolbe impressed the world with the insane Ashcroft throw of doom. Future leaders Scott Rowenczak and Andrew Pitman inspired the world to do great things up to a point with their almost loony dedication to the game. Crowds came and went, players lived and died, and at the heart of the matter were the game itself, an athletic challenge that only the bravest can do best. The team would like to extend its gratitude to Coach Spiegl for doing the impossible and actually making this a school-sponsored sport. Amen.

DEBATE

This year's debate team had another excellent year debating United States Ocean Policy, culminating at the Tournament of Champions with a team of John Patten and Matt Clair finishing in the sweet sixteen and a team of Tripp Rebrovick and Alex Lamballe finishing in the elite eight in the nation. Jonathan Cannon and Matt Bodnar qualified for the prestigious tournament and finished with a winning record.

This year marked a new beginning for debate. Our new head coach Michael Risen took over the program as former coach (and now academic dean) Alan Coverstone played a lesser role. Mr. Tate, still the icon of debate at Montgomery Bell, continues to direct the program and coordinate MBA's tournament, the Southern Bell Forum.

The varsity team was comprised of senior John Patten, juniors Alex Lamballe, Tripp Rebrovick, Jonathan Cannon, Matt Bodnar, Nick Shockey, Charlie Sharbel, Kevin Wieck, Matt Clair, Tyler Bond, and sophomores Will Proffitt and Parkes Brittain.

As in years past, the debate team still "pillaged many villages." Some of the highlights: a semifinal appearance at Wake Forest, Semifinals at New Trier, Quarterfinals of the Glenbrooks (the largest tournament of the year), Finals of Homewood, two octofinalists at the Barkley Forum at Emory, a close out of the finals at Vestavia (MBA had both teams in the final round) and a first place sweepstakes award, finals at Samford University, a second place finish at the Junior Round Robin at Northwestern, and Quarterfinals at the Northwestern tournament.

MBA novices, under the leadership of Mr. Lester and Vanderbilt student Will Otte performed remarkably. The team of Eddie Ebbert and Kyle Davis won the Glenbrooks, MBA had three teams reach the elimination round at the novice national championship in Atlanta, and also Kyle and Eddie reached the finals of the St. Marks round robin in Dallas.

Varsity Lincoln Douglas, comprised of seniors Spence Patton and Tim Cummings, had an excellent year as well. Spence won several tournaments including the Iowa Caucus tournament and Homewood, and reached the Octofinals at the TOC. The future of LD shows promise with Tipper Austin, a rising sophomore.

Jonathan Ray, the sole member of MBA's extemp team also did well. He was 4th at Glenbrooks, 1st at Vestavia, 1st at Homewood, and invited to the Southern Bell Forum Extemp Round Robin which only invites the top 15 extempers in the country. Jonathan is a rising senior and should do very well next year.

The future of MBA debate looks bright. With 9 returning seniors, 2 rising juniors, and 6 rising sophomores, MBA will be a dominating force next year as we debate whether the US should increase its support of United Nation's Peace Keeping Operations.

MODEL UN

The MBA Model UN-ers enjoyed yet another successful weekend of international politics in the downtown Hilton. Conference highlights included a thrilling U.S. victory in the International Court of Justice, trips to Sam's Sushi, and Gambia's entertaining but unsuccessful attempt to acquire nuclear weapons. Individual awards went to Brock Baker, Jonathan Ray, Tripp Rebrovick, Pete Burgess, James Schuller, and Christopher Schuller.

CREATIVE WRITING SOCIETY

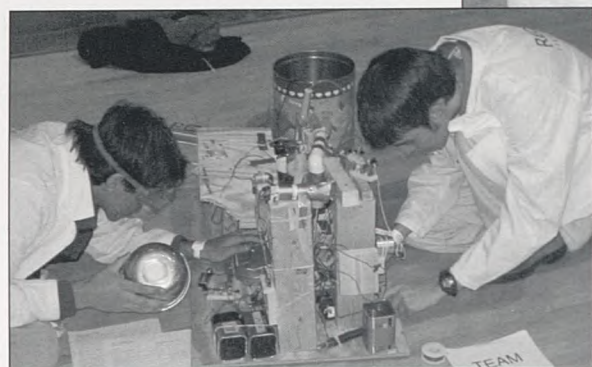

Led by Shaun McFall and Lauren Dagely, the MBA/HH Creative Writing Society grew in popularity this year, offering to beginning poets and fiction writers at Harpeth Hall and MBA a community in which to nurture their poetic talents. Faculty sponsors Mr. Haywood Moxley and Ms. G'Anne Harmon organized monthly meetings where students came for pizza and drinks before sitting down to write and read their work. Local writers also addressed the group, giving the students a look into the writing life. Kudos to Shaun and Lauren for their dedication to organizing the group. In the sure hands of Chris Pickens, the society will continue to grow and become another tradition of excellence at both schools.

SCIENCE OLYMPIAD

Under the leadership of the founding members, Jonathan Doerr, Phillip Bracikowski, Rob Zellem, and Jesse Richards, the Science Olympiad Team took the Middle Tennessee Regional Competition by storm, winning first place overall in only its first official year of competition. The team, dubbed the Red Army Corps of Engineers by senior David Amiot, went on to finish 3rd in the field of State Finals hosted by UT Knoxville. Special thanks to Amy Seiders, Dr. Michael Marro, Commander Carr, and the Mothers' Club.

ENVIROTHON

After the miraculous come-from-behind win at last year's regional envirothon, the team expected to do well this year. After no preparation and some clutch cramming during the bus ride there, we felt confident that we could do well. After some uncertain waiting, we emerged with a victorious, winning every category. After a few intervening weeks, we set off to state. After a strong first day, despite the loss of Will Proffitt, we finished with a decent presentation to end up second overall in State.

ASTRONOMY CLUB

The Astronomy Club began school year 2003-2004 with its twice weekly activity meetings which, as the year progressed, largely disappeared because of Dr. Clark's increased work load. In the fall, the club's president, Phillip Bracikowski, continued to grind the 14-inch Dobsonian telescope minor into shape. The telescope, which at time of writing is still unfinished, should be completed before graduation. As the core workers, Phillip Bracikowski, and Vice-President Rob Zellem will graduate, rising freshman Mason Braswell will be vital to maintaining the Astronomy Club into 2005.

The Astronomy Club had a record membership level, but the lowest involvement ever as well with few members participating. The core members planned a few outings for the newly formed Astronomy Class to the Model Airplane Field to observe the planets and other objects. But, no other major outings or events occurred. If you have the slightest interest in astronomy, observational or theoretical, please seek out Dr. Clark and get involved. The club's donated eight-inch telescope is impressive!

RECYCLE MBA

Recycle MBA is a club that performs the duty of collecting paper from bins placed in classrooms throughout campus that will later be taken to a recycling facility. This year being no different from years past, the Recycling Club consisted of a core group of Big Red Recyclers who continued to collect recyclable paper from around campus. The President of Recycle MBA for the third straight year was Steven Vutsinas, Vice President Trevor Yarbrough, Secretary Phillip Bracikowski, Sergeant-at-Arms Jonathan Doerr, and Faculty Sponsor Mr. Spiegl. A big thanks to everyone who helped out with recycling this year. Hopefully in the upcoming years, Recycle MBA will be able to take on more recycling duties with cans and plastics and perhaps even start a recycling drop off center somewhere on campus so that the rest of the MBA community can become involved.

In its eighth year of publication, Top of the Hill had a very successful year serving MBA's Junior School students. Led by Editor-in-Chief Daniel Givens, Publication Manager Matt Sternberg, Copy Editor John Moynihan, Entertainment Editor Caleb Coker, Features Editor Brendan Mayhew, Sports Editor Robbie Weikert, Photographer Graham Coburn, and faculty advisors Mrs. Bourland and Mrs. Pettus, the writers turned in such articles as "Is Pamela Anderson really Jimmy's mom?," an interview with "Buzz" Bissinger, Will Orman's infamous CD-reviews, "Hat Pride," and countless sports articles.

The following article appeared in The Bell Ringer to announce the creation of the King Society.

In mid-November, senior Edwin Conley and senior class president Ben Pote jointly announced the Martin Luther King Jr. Society, intended to join the ranks of Cum Laude and Totomoi as major recognition of an individual students' long-term contributions to campus life. With its narrow focus on community service, school-based and otherwise, the King Society represents a departure from the criteria of its older organizational cousins. According to Mildred Tilley, MBA Librarian and faculty sponsor for the society, the society's constitution establishes it to honour MBA students who "strive to exhibit the ... characteristics for which Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. is best remembered," and follows an election procedure closely akin to MBA's honorary fraternity.

After completing an application detailing their service accomplishments and including a personal statement, candidates must be elected by a majority of the society and confirmed by two thirds of the faculty. For the purposes of this year's election, due to be complete by the end of the first semester, founder Conley and president Pote will serve as current members.

Though the fledgling society's constitution establishes a minimum of ten official MBA service hours for membership, it makes few demands where other recognitions demand high performance. Said Tilley, who credits English teacher Michael Kelly with the idea for the new honour, "The King Society will give those students who are not in the top 20% of the class academically a chance to be in an MBA honorary society. ... I think that establishing this society will indicate to people outside of MBA that the school strives to educate young men who will look to the legacy of MLK and try to follow in his path as a leader for the betterment of humankind."

The society will announce its new members—not more than ten juniors and ten seniors—on January 20, 2004.

K	Kindness to others
I	Integrity
N	Never-failing hope
G	Graciousness
S	Selflessness

CUM LAUDE SOCIETY

The Cum Laude Society, the national high-school equivalent to Phi Beta Kappa, serves to identify and reward students who have distinguished themselves during their years at MBA academically. In an annual ceremony that takes place in early February, students are inducted based on their cumulative grade point average. Membership in the Cum Laude Society is the highest academic honor a student can achieve here at MBA. In addition to the inductees to the right, current members include Taylor Barnett, Phillip Bracikowski, Chris Cynn, Jack Davis, Patrick Linehan, Charlie Morgan, Clark Shell, and Rob Zellem.

TOTOMOI SOCIETY

Founded in 1954 by then Headmaster Dr. Sager, Totomoi, MBA's honorary fraternity, recognizes juniors and seniors, as well as alumni and teachers, who have shown outstanding leadership in academic achievement, athletics, service to the school, and community service. Membership in Totomoi is the highest honor a student can achieve in his career at MBA.

NATIONAL MERIT SCHOLARSHIP SEMI-FINALISTS

For the 2003-2004 year, MBA was proud to have twenty-one members of the senior class named as semi-finalists in the National Merit Scholarship competition. This number of semi-finalists is the highest of any school in the state of Tennessee and represents the largest number of semi-finalists that the school has had since 1986. The semifinalists were Taylor Barnett, Phillip Bracikowski, Jack Davis, Jonathan Doerr, Jeff Ewers, Matthew Francis, Josiah Garton, Scott Hagan, Branch Howard, Neal Idnani, Arthur Kim, Shaun McFall, Charles Morgan, Jesse Richards, Christopher Schuller, Alex Shofner, Matthew Smith, Ted Tywang, Steven Vutsinas, Trevor Yarbrough, and Robert Zellem. Of these twenty-one semi-finalists, twenty went on to be named finalists as National Merit Scholars later in the school year.

JUNIOR HONOR SOCIETY

The Junior Honor Society serves to recognize students who have distinguished themselves academically in their early years on the hill. In order to be inducted into the society, a student must maintain an average of 90 or higher during three consecutive semesters at MBA. Congratulations to everyone inducted this year.

HONOR COUNCIL

As MBA's judicial branch, the Honor Council was founded in 1945 to uphold the honor and integrity of the school. The twelve-member panel consists of four seniors, three juniors, two sophomores, two freshmen, and one eight-grader. For the 2003-2004 year, the Honor Council was led by President James Dade, Vice-President Scott Hagan, and Secretary Max Douglas.

MR. COMPTON'S 1/2 BIRTHDAY PARTY

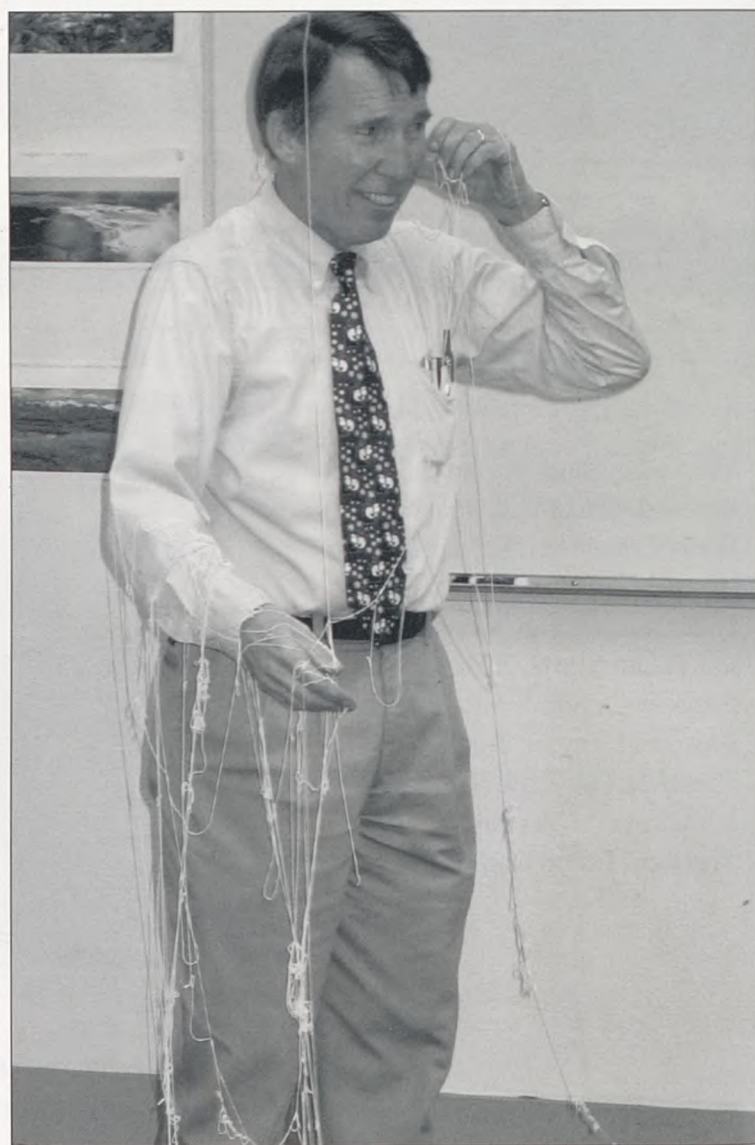

On December 19, 2003, a group of sophomores did something a little untraditional on the hill, throwing a surprise half birthday party for Mr. Compton. Having planned the party in advance, the sophomores decorated Mr. Compton's classroom in B-33 to fit the occasion, complete with silly string, a pinata, and, yes, a cake with a picture of Mr. Compton on top. The party was a blast for everyone there as some members of the administration showed up to join the fun. Thanks to the sophomores, especially Teddy Christenberry, for organizing this unique event.

CULTURAL AWARENESS WEEK

This year the King Society sponsored Cultural Awareness Week in an effort to give the MBA community a better understanding of the rest of the world. In addition to the return of the popular "Mix It Up Day," the week was highlighted by a discussion of The Passion of the Christ between a minister and a rabbi in an assembly and a Polynesian experience during lunch.

Thanks again to the Fathers Club, MBA's annual Father-Son Dinner took place this year on March 8, 2004. In addition to a number of speeches by seniors and presentations by the jazz band and Mr. Threalkill, Mr. Bill Bundy was the keynote speaker for the evening.

MOTHER-SON BREAKFAST

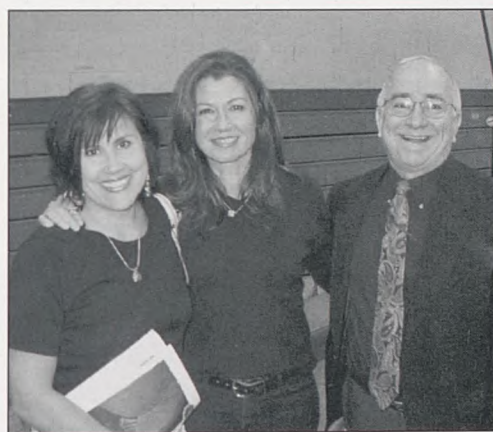

On April 27, 2004, the Mothers Club hosted another spring breakfast for MBA's mothers and students. The morning was composed of a number of speeches and musical performances, including a few words from seniors, some poetry from Mrs. Kate Daniels, and a surprise concert given by Amy Grant.

WEENIEST BOWL EVER

In an epic battle between good and evil, the forces of light and dark came into conflict once again as the evil Science Olympiad team challenged the innocent tree-hugging Envirothon team to what would forever be called.....THE WEENIEST BOWL EVER. However, due to multiple scheduling conflicts, and T.J. Hinton wussing out on the Envirothon team, the flag football match, as in no physical contact, had to be canceled. Luckily though the captains of their respective teams determined that they would not simply let it be. Thus the captains found the only sport that neither knew how to play in order to decide who would take home the WBE trophy: tennis. The captain's tennis match took place the afternoon of the senior prank. While the rest of the Senior class went home, Science Olympiad Captain Jonathan Doerr and Envirothon Captain Steven Vutsinas matched skill and physical acumen against one another. In an epic battle at the tennis courts on Estes, good suffered a terrible defeat as Jonathan trounced the Envirothon captain in a 6-3 match. After the match Jonathan gloatingly took his trophy, and Steven went and hugged a tree. On behalf of Jonathan and myself I would like to thank all of our loyal fans....but I can't since no one showed up to the match. By the way, this article was in no way biased.

HOMEcoming

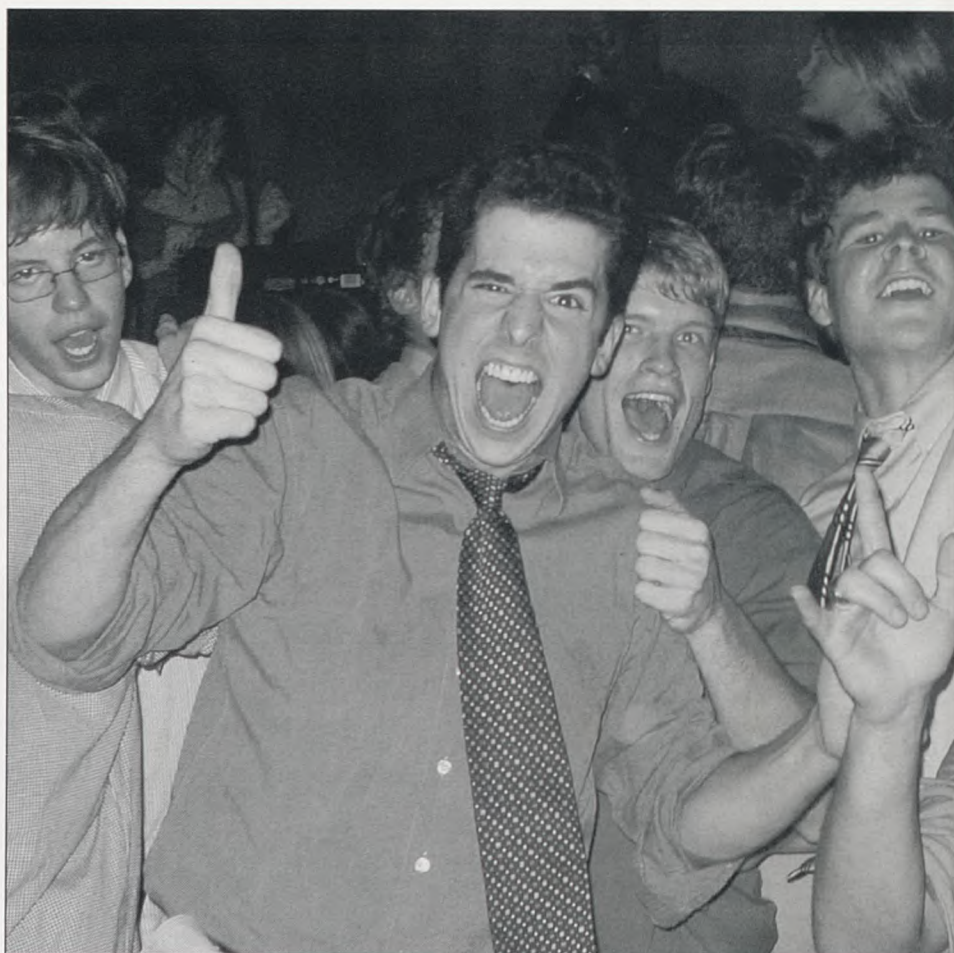

Beginning on the evening of October 3, 2003, Homecoming kicked into gear with the Spaghetti Supper, now a traditional event for the MBA community, and was in full swing later that night as MBA's varsity football team beat McCallie 38-9. On the following night, the Student Council organized the Homecoming Dance, which a number of high-school students attended and after a while even began to dance.

DISCO DANCE

As it usually is, the Disco Dance was held by the seniors to raise money for Project Graduation. This year's dance, which took place on March 6, 2004, was a fun time for everyone as the theater was transformed into a disco arena complete with lights, music, and fabulous clothes.

Right: Mardi Gras.....Good idea

MBA held its annual prom for juniors and seniors on Saturday, April 17, 2004. Going along with the Mardi Gras theme of the evening, the seniors enjoyed a cajun meal in Frist Hall beforehand and moseyed into the theater, a new location for Prom this year, to attend Senior Presentation. The theater was well-decorated with balloons and masks, keeping with the theme. After Presentation, the seniors joined the juniors on the dance floor and enjoyed a fun night dancing to the music of a live band. Thanks to the junior class, especially the junior class officers, Mr. Gaither, and Mr. Morrison for all of the work they put into the Junior-Senior Prom.

anything goes

Dr. Cal Fuller

"With Anything Goes, we proudly celebrate Harpeth Hall and MBA's sixth musical collaboration. The show is best known for Porter's charming music and lyrics, arguably the best Broadway has ever produced, with such timeless hits as "It's De-Lovely" and "I get a Kick Out of You."

We've had "smooth sailing" (even through "the narrow"!), and that's extremely rare. Such calm waters are no accident, but rather the result of the dedication and commitment of all on board. As we reach our final ports-of-call, we also hope all have grown in their friendships, loves, and understanding of themselves. Thanks for joining us on the trip!"

---Ms. Klocko and Dr. Fuller

My story is much too sad to be told,
But practically ev'rything leaves me totally cold.
The only exception I know is the case
When I'm out on a quiet spree,
Fighting vainly the old ennui,
And I suddenly turn to see your fabulous face.

"Dicaeopolis the original 'grumpy old man and everyone not sharing his particular view on the importance of peace is a target for his lampooning, including ambassadors to the Persian court, his fellow Athenians, and the general Lamachus.

Enjoy the antics as worlds collide in Dicaeopolis' search for peace!"

---G. Edward Gaffney, Ph.D.

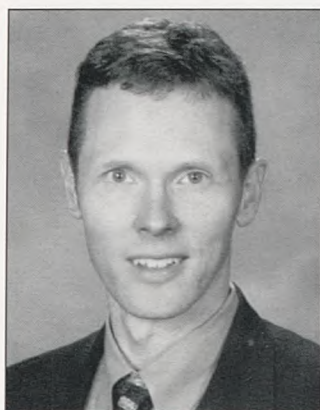

"A long line of political satirical comedies stretches out from Aristophanes' Acharnians, through the wild fantastical farces of Joe Orton, Jean Giraudoux and Dario Fo, to the popular Saturday Night Live and the UK's Splitting Image television shows. Topical satire by its very nature can diminish in its potency as time passes, but the underlying theme of peace in Acharnians is a universal ideal.

This cast and production team have heartily embraced these ideals and had enormous fun over the past nine weeks, bringing this play to the stage. The relevance of this 2,500 year old play is abundantly clear through their interpretation, and I am wholly indebted to the artistry of everyone involved."

Director's Note:

"The Foreigner has been a favorite play of mine for a long time. It's message about the problem of xenophobia is both timely and timeless. It has dynamic characters, hysterically funny scenes, and a dynamic conclusion; however, it has some tough acting and technical challenges as well. As the playwright Larry Shue himself states, "the trickiest thing to nail down has been the nature of the characters and their relationships . . . before Charlie changes them around." Likewise, the technical requirements for the exciting ending are daunting. I have waited until I have the right talented actors and technical artists- and that is now. I applaud this cast and crew for making this challenging show such a success." --Cal Fuller

Note from the Production Manager:

"This evening of one-act plays is the culmination of a year of study and practice in the Studio Theater class. I am extremely pleased of their work throughout the year and especially with the results you will see tonight.

Always, the results are interesting. I have known many of the members of this class since their first day at 4001 Harding Road. It has been an honor and privilege to watch them grow into men during their time here. As their paths diverge, I hope they take with them lasting memories and friendships from their time on MBA's stage."

JUNIOR SCHOOL

Mrs. Debbie Franks

Only Mrs. Franks could convince so many teenage boys to repeatedly don bed sheet togas and enthusiastically sing numerous Latin songs! There's nothing quite like the melodious sound of her Latin I students bellowing declension endings to tunes like "Row, Row, Row Your Boat" and "Jingle Bells."

All of us are saddened by Mrs. Franks' impending move to Atlanta; in fact, a few of us have even volunteered to go with her. Since this is not possible, we dedicate the Junior School section of The Bell to Mrs. Debbie Franks in recognition of our respect and affection for her.

The William Martin Award to the Best All-Around Boy in the School: William Simpson

Commencement

On the evening of May 23, 2004, the senior class of Montgomery Bell Academy crossed the quadrangle for the last time as students at MBA and for the first time as alumni. The commencement procession was led by Jay Dawson and his bagpipes which have become a tradition at MBA and was followed by Headmaster Gioia remarking on the origin of the commencement ceremony. Phillip Bracikowski delivered the Salutatory Address followed by Charles Morgan with the Valedictory Address. Following their speeches the class of 2004 proceeded across the stage to receive their diplomas. The ceremony was ended by the new alumni proceeding out of the quad where the class of 2004 celebrated with joy, smiles, high-fives, and cigars. The night was memorable, but more importantly their time on the hill as a whole will remain with them always.

Jonathan remember...

"To laugh often and love much;
To win the respect of intelligent people and the affection of children;
To earn the appreciation of honest critics and endure the betrayal of false friends;
To appreciate beauty, to find the best in others;
To leave the world a bit better,
whether by a healthy child,
a garden patch or a redeemed social condition;
To know even one life has breathed easier
because you have lived.
This is to have succeeded."

You know a dream is like a river
 Ever changin' as it flows
 And a dreamer's just a vessel
 That us follow where it goes...
 So don't you sit upon the shoreline
 And say you're satisfied
 Choose to chance the rapids
 And dare to dance the tide...

For keeping me sane
during those long summer
hours in the office

From the Editor . . .

It's way past three weeks into my summer vacation, which is how long I planned on being in the office after already graduating. That's how much of my summer I have had to sacrifice to finish The Bell. Honestly, though, I don't mind. Vamsi started off his editor's pages for the 2003 yearbook with the statement, "Don't be yearbook editor," and under some circumstances I would agree with that statement. But overall, being yearbook editor was the best thing I ever did during my six years at MBA. I had the opportunity to get to know my classmates better by working on their senior advertisements and senior bios and hunting them down to obtain the pictures for their pages. Also, despite the tremendous work load that the yearbook adds to an already packed academic schedule, it has its perks. How many members of the senior class can say that they had their own office at MBA, three computers to do their last-minute theme typing, a fridge, microwave, popcorn maker, coffee maker, and most importantly an escape from the rest of the campus? I loved working on the yearbook, and I don't resent any of the sacrifices I had to make to get it done, whether the countless weekends I spent at MBA or the weeks of my summer vacation after I'd already graduated. In fact, I am very proud of my staff for all their hardwork in helping to get the book out as soon as we are. Despite several staff members quitting and the accidental deletion of sixty-nine pages because of a faulty external hard drive, the yearbook staff did a great job. The final product is actually the longest copy of The Bell ever produced at a total length of 376 pages. In short, I have this to say about my experience as editor of the yearbook: Be yearbook editor...it has its perks.

---Steven Vutsinas, Editor

Do not go gentle into that good night

Do not go gentle into that good night,
Old age should burn and rave at close of day;
Rage, rage against the dying of the light.

Though wise men at their end know dark is right,
Because their words had forked no lightning they
Do not go gentle into that good night.

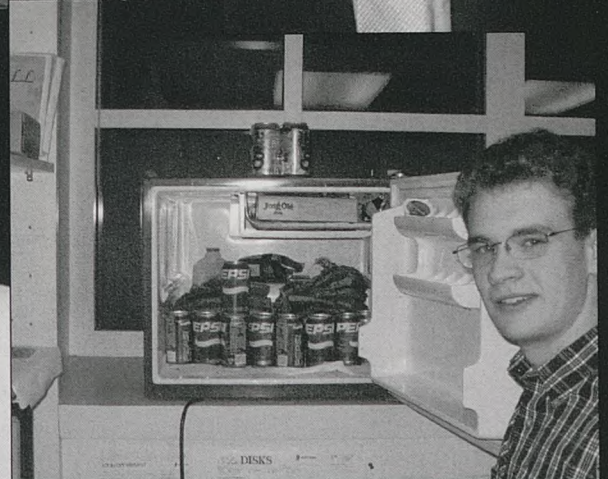

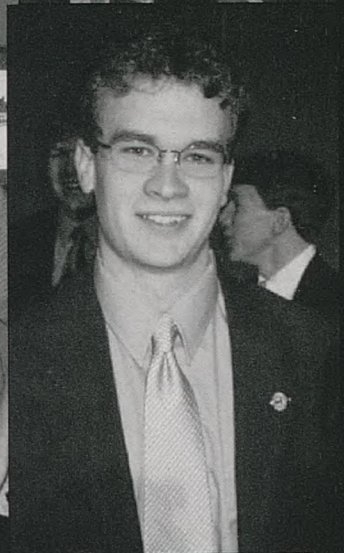

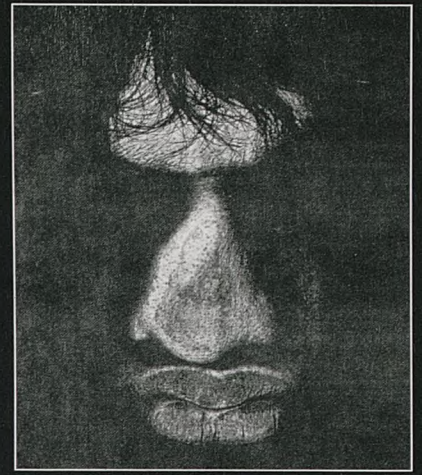

Good men, the last wave by, crying how bright
Their frail deeds might have danced in a green bay,
Rage, rage against the dying of the light.

Wild men who caught and sang the sun in flight,
And learn, too late, they grieved it on its way,
Do not go gentle into that good night.

Grave men, near death, who see with blinding sight
Blind eyes could blaze like meteors and be gay,
Rage, rage against the dying of the light.

And you, my father, there on the sad height,
Curse, bless, me now with your fierce tears, I pray.
Do not go gentle into that good night.
Rage, rage against the dying of the light.
